Whereas, the Councils of the City of Philadelphia have heard, with a deep sense of the public calamity, of the death of the Hon. man. And while there is made public these expressions of feelings entertained by these Councils for the national deprivation consequent upon the death of Mr. Adams, it is meet that general sympathy should follow the afflicted into the domestic circle, and sorrow for the loss of the statesman and patriot should be mingled with grief for the death of the husband and father. John Quincy Adams, the halls of these Councils and the Hall of Independence be hung with black for the space of six months, and that the Committee on City Property be, and they are hereby instructed to carry into effect this resolution.

Resolved, That a Joint Special Committee of three members in each Council be appointed to make and carry out such other arrangements as in their opinion may appropriately express the sense which these Councils and the people of Philadelphia entertain for the public services of the great statesman, the pure patriot, the profound scholar, the upright, good man, who was "content" to part with "the last of earth" in the midst of labors for the country.

APPENDIX, No. II.

The Building Committee of the Girard College, respectfully ask the attention of Councils to the subject of an appropriation for the completion of the work under their charge, and the payment of the outstanding debts.

The balance of appropriation remaining on hand at the close of the past year, being ample for the immediate prosecution of the work, as was stated in the last annual report, the Committee deemed it unnecessary to ask for a new appropriation at the commencement of the season, as had been their previous custom, but to proceed with the work as far as the amount remaining at their disposal would warrant; this they have done, and they now ask Councils to appropriate the sum of thirty-five thousand dollars, to enable them to bring it to a final conclusion.

The Committee have the satisfaction to inform Councils, that all that remains to be done to complete the work, is the finishing of the grading of the grounds and the gates of entrance; they have, therefore, decided to give the Directors formal possession on Saturday next, the 13th inst., after which they will proceed to close up several contracts and present to Councils a detailed report of their proceedings, all of which will be accomplished before the close of the year.

The Committee respectfully request the passage of the following Ordinance.

Resolved, That the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works be, and they are hereby requested to compensate William Leach, for loss sustained by the explosion of gas on the 30th of March last, in his premises, No. 14 Cherry street.

APPENDIX, No. V.

Report of the Minority.

The undersigned, being a minority of the Police Committee, beg leave to

REPORT—

That the Committee to whom was referred the petition of William Leach, for remuneration of loss sustained in March last by an explosion of Gas on his premises, after certain repairs had been made, reported thereon to the last meeting of Councils, which report was laid on the table of members—to whom it is also known that there appeared so many conflicting opinions, from testimony variously collected, and especially from the imperfect reports and documents therewith exhibited—that Councils judged it most proper to refer the case back to the Police Committee, as we inferred, for the sole purpose of obtaining more perfect details, and explicit testimony—for their deliberate action, at our next meeting.

Without intending any impeachment of motives, that may have actuated the majority in their decision, that there was evidence enough in their own minds—it did appear to the minority, that they should sustain their position, by shewing that their desire and endeavour to seek for further information was frustrated, by the course of the majority in committee.

For the purpose of eliciting additional testimony, the minority made a motion for a committee of three to be appointed. This motion was overruled by a vote of two to two, although seven members were present; three refused to vote or asked to be excused.

The next step by the majority, was to adopt a resolution to refer the subject back to the Trustees of the Gas works, with a request, that they should remunerate William Leach. This may strike some members, as a desire to throw the burthen of action upon the Trustees, and if this were the avowed object, the undersigned might acquiesce in such a step, if it were also intended to leave that body free to act upon their own conviction of right and justice, but we understand it as a measure of expediency, founded upon the arguments as contained in the former report to Councils, whereby a claim is grounded upon an alleged violation of law on the part of the Trustees of the Gas works. With this gross error, the undersigned cannot consent to remain silent.

We challenge the majority of this Committee, to shew any law or ordinance binding the Trustees or their agents, to shut off, or close the gas pipes, at any particular place, for the purpose of repairs or extensions.

The first ordinance on the subject, which has been quoted as law, is of 6th October, 1836, which contains nothing obligatory on the Gas company, but a rule or ordinance strictly binding on every one opening a gas pipe, (no matter where it may be stopped,) for extensions or improvements, until after the work has been inspected by the authorized agent of the Gas works.

There is an ordinance, passed 6th February, 1838, "That it shall be lawful for the said Trustees to provide, from time to time, such further and other rules and regulations under which the gas may be furnished to private consumers, as experience may suggest, and as the Trustees may deem necessary or convenient in the use or consumption of gas.

In the former report, much stress has been laid on the documents A and B, wherein the Superintendent expresses his belief that "the omission to stop off the gas, in the street, to be a violation of the rule of the office, under express orders, &c." This expresses a belief, a mere opinion, that such a rule existed. But, take the conclusion of that paragraph and what follows, and you will perceive the true state of the case, contradicting the opinions built upon the mere impression that there was such a rule. The letter goes on to say, "I determined to examine into the matter without delay. Upon doing so, the Inspector informed me, that he had no recollection of having ever received orders on the subject, either from the board or me; and that the practice of the office had always been to stop off only at the meter, for alterations or repairs." How the majority could have arrived at the conclusion, that what the Superintendent confessed to be his first impression amounted to a fixed rule or law on the subject, we cannot conjecture. His following statement contradicts it.

The minority, after examining the subject with all the information placed before them, are under a firm belief, that there is no regulation or positive law, previous to March last, binding the Trustees, or their agents, (in the event of extensions or repairs) to stop the flow of gas at any particular place, but that it should be stopped off at the discretion of the Inspector, at some point, apparently safe, during the progress of repairs—but after it is so stopped off by authority, no one, but an Inspector, duly authorized, can let on the flow of gas, without being subjected to the penalty provided by ordinance.

The minority are so thoroughly convinced of these facts—and that Mr. Leach, by his own omission, or act, in turning the gas on, before Inspection, incurred the penalty—that they conceive it would be great injustice to the Trustees of the Gas works, to urge upon them the remuneration of loss for the negligence of Mr. Leach, for the explosion of gas upon his premises—the loss or injury could not have happened, but through his own agency. Had Mr. Leach used the precaution which he knew to be necessary on his part, no evil would have ensued.

The document herewith marked E will shew more explicitly what was the practice, and will prove, we think, (a material fact) that Mr. Leach knew the ordinance which forbade his letting on the flow of gas, after such a stoppage, for you will find this was not the first time Mr. Leach had applied for extensions, which he did, we are informed, in October, 1844—and then, as in the late instance, the stoppage of gas was at the meter, within the wall, and when the work was done, the Inspector was called on and performed his duty of examination—all of which is known to Mr. Leach.

The undersigned deem it expedient to inform Councils, that it appeared to them important to procure further facts, and more direct testimony, on the question referred to them, relative to the explosion of gas, on the premises of William Leach, in March last, for which purpose one of your Committee took upon himself the task, and addressed a note to Mr. George Weigand, the Inspector of the Philadelphia Gas Works, asking several questions bearing on the case, as to what had been the practice in the prosecution of his duties, &c. The answers are herewith presented, marked E.

A similar note was written and sent to the Register of the Gas office, the answer also accompanying marked F.

A note was attached to the above, addressed to Mr. John P. Murta, Clerk in the Gas office (for some ten years)—inquiring what had been the custom in turning off gas for alteration or repairs—the answer to the same is marked G.

All of which are respectfully submitted.

JOSHUA TEVIS,
JOHN P. WETHERILL.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS BY GEO. WEIGAND, INSPECTOR.

MR. J. TEVIS,

Dear Sir—Your note of the 8th is received, and I reply to your questions in the order in which you have propounded them.

1. I am the Inspector of the Philadelphia Gas Works.

2. I have been rather more than six years so employed.

3. The practice of stopping off the gas for extensions or improvements has invariably been, so far as my knowledge extends, at the meter within the walls of the premises.

4. I knew of no rule or law making it obligatory on the Gas Company, or their agent, to stop off the gas outside the premises during extensions or improvements.

5—6. Mr. Leach had to my knowledge an extension to his gas fixtures in October 26, 1844, when it was stopped off at the meter inside the premises, and he was aware at that time that he could not use the gas until I had inspected the extension and turned on the gas.

7. I understand it was turned on by a man in his employ, and I think by the testimony before the alderman, by his direction.

Yours, respectfully,

GEORGE WEIGAND.

November 10, 1847.

ANSWER OF MR. WILLIAM FENNELL, REGISTER.

OFFICE OF THE PHILA. GAS WORKS,
November 9th, 1847.

JOSHUA TEVIS, Esq.,

Dear Sir—In answer to your queries respecting the stopping off gas for extensions or repairs, I have to state that I have been Register of the Gas works since April, 1836.

That gas was first lighted from our works, in the city, on the 10th February, 1836.

The first extension of Fittings was made in 1838.

The practice, as far as I have any knowledge or recollection of the fact, was to use the stop-cock near the meter to turn off the gas for alterations.

There has been no rule or regulation that, in my opinion, required the gas to be stopped off in the street, for alterations or repairs, until the Committee on Distribution adopted one, after the explosion at Leach's premises.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM FENNELL, Register.

ANSWER OF MR. JOHN P. MURTA, CLERK GAS OFFICE.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9, 1847.

MR. TEVIS,

Dear Sir—I perceive by a communication addressed by you to Mr. Fennell, you wish me to answer certain questions as to “what has been the custom of the office in relation to turning off gas for extension or repairs.”

1st. I have been in the office of the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works about ten years.

2nd. I have never known of any specific rule, (prior to the explosion of gas at Mr. Leach’s,) requiring the gas to be stopped for repairs or extension of pipes other than the ordinance of Councils, passed October 6, 1836.

3rd. The practice of the office had been to give the permit to the Gas Fitter for alteration or repairs, and he or the consumer to stop the gas off at the stop-cock in the cellar between the meter and the wall of the building, until the repairs or alteration were completed and passed by the Inspector of the Works.

Your obedient servant,

JOHN P. MURTA.

That they are of opinion, no satisfactory reason exists why the body of Policemen referred to, or any officer of the Corporation receiving an adequate money compensation for their services, should be also provided with overcoats at the expense of the City.

Your Committee, therefore, deem it inexpedient to pass said resolution ; and they further beg leave to offer the resolution annexed.

Philadelphia, Dec. 10, 1847.

HON. JOHN SWIFT, MAYOR :

Dear Sir—In accordance with the result of our interview yesterday, I herewith have the pleasure to communicate to you the proceedings of Councils, and of the Committee on Police, in relation to an increase of the Police force of the city.

In Committee on Police, Nov. 29, 1847.

Which was read,

And being under consideration, Mr. Tevis offered the following—

Resolved, That the chairman of this Committee be authorized to confer with the Mayor, and obtain from him a plan for increasing or reorganizing the City Police, and that the chairman prepare a report for this Committee to act upon at the next meeting.

Which was agreed to.

Mayor's Office, Dec. 15, 1847.

TO CHARLES A. POULSON, ESQ.

Dear Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 10th inst., as chairman of the Committee on Police, containing the resolutions passed by Councils for the increase or reorganization of the Police force of the city, as also the resolution of your Committee on the same subject.

A reorganization of the Police department would be very desirable, and I should gladly embrace the present opportunity to offer an entire new system for the consideration of the Committee, but that it would require more time to mature and bring it into operation, than under circumstances could well be spared.

As both resolutions are in the disjunctive, I have made up my mind to confine my remarks to that portion of each which has reference to an increase of the number of the present system, leaving the other, which contemplates a very large additional force, and on an entirely different plan, to subsequent and deliberate consideration.

The knowledge possessed by your committee of the general features of our present system, will render a more minute description than the following unnecessary.

The whole Police force of the city consists of one hundred and seventy-five men—one hundred and twenty-six of whom are watchmen. Twenty-seven are night policemen; eleven are day policemen, and the remaining eleven are the four captains of the watch, the four high constables, two lieutenants of police, and one special constable. The duties of the first are to light and watch the city by night. Although it is not my purpose to ask from Councils at this time an increase of this branch of the police, I will merely call the attention of your Committee to the last report of the Watering Committee, wherein it will be seen that seventy miles of pipe have been put down in the streets, lanes and alleys of the city, for the purpose of showing how inadequate such a force is to the end to be obtained in their appointment, viz., the safety of the citizens by night. This force, comprising nearly three-fourths of the whole body of Policemen, is discharged every morning after day-light, and scattered over the city, so that in the event of an outbreak or riot, it would be impossible to collect them together in time to prevent the mischief consequent upon such occasions, and when brought together, they are exhausted from the want of sleep, and of course unfitted for effective duty.

Upon the next branch, viz., the night police, as I have upon a former occasion said, I mainly rely. Their duties are arduous, various and responsible. They have served the city for the last two years, by day and by night, most faithfully; and, in truth, without their efficient aid, I know not what I should have done. I desire most especially an increase in this branch, that their labors may be reduced by dividing them into reliefs.

Upon the next branch, viz., the eleven day police, devolves the supervision of the entire city from day-light until ten o'clock at night, and it is for your Committee and the Councils to say whether such a force is adequate to the performance of the requirements of the several ordinances of the city.

The duties of the remaining eleven, viz., of the officers, are too well understood to require at my hands an explanation of what they are.

Thus I have, as briefly as was in my power, given in detail the character and structure of the present Police force, and with a few illustrative remarks upon the foregoing, will close this communication.

When the extent of our city is looked at, its environs and population thought of, the daily infractions of the ordinances, the outrages of firemen, the vile associations of young men into clubs, and other causes of complaint are reflected upon, comment upon the want of a stronger Police force would seem to be superfluous.

I therefore propose to add thirty-nine men to the day police, and twenty-three to the night police, thus making each to consist of fifty men. The business of the office has increased so much that I find it impossible to get on without an additional special constable, and I therefore earnestly request the appointment of another.

With this increase of force we shall not only ensure a more rigid observance of our ordinances, have a guarantee against the frequency of riots, so destructive to the morals and character of our city, but the benefit arising from the accession will so satisfy the community of its importance, that ere long an entire reorganization will be called for by our fellow citizens, a plan of which can now be maturing, and thus in due time carry out the object contained in the resolution of Councils; all of which is most respectfully submitted by

Dear Sir, your most obedient servant,

JOHN SWIFT,
Mayor.

APPENDIX, No. XI.

To the Select and Common Councils of the City of Philadelphia :

The Joint Special Committee to whom was referred the following proposed resolution,

“Resolved, That hereafter no member of Council shall be eligible to any office in the gift or at the disposal of Councils, except where the same may be required by legislative enactments,” respectfully

REPORT—

That before proceeding to the consideration of the subject referred to the Committee, the chairman of the Committee addressed a note to the City Solicitor, a copy of which is hereto annexed, and marked “No. 1,” inquiring of him whether any of the offices in question are required by law to be filled by members of Councils, and what, in his opinion, would be the legal effect of a joint resolution of Councils, that no member of them should be hereafter eligible to any office “in the gift or at the disposal of Councils.”

To these inquiries an answer was received, which is hereto annexed, marked "No. 2," stating that there is no law which requires that any such office shall be filled by a member of Councils, but that such a joint resolution as was referred to, would have no binding effect except in regard to offices created by Councils themselves, and not by any legislative enactment, and not then, when filled by the joint elections of the two Councils. Assuming this opinion to be correct, it will at once be perceived that the binding effect of such a resolution would be limited to a very few offices, and that any legislative provision beyond this point, would be an illegal and improper enactment. The Committee came therefore to an unanimous concurrence in recommending that the resolution referred to them should be amended, so as to read as in the resolution annexed to this report, and that the resolution thus amended should be passed.

All which is respectfully submitted.

B. GERHARD,
JOHN TRUCKS,
A. G. WATERMAN,
WILLIAM MORRIS.

Resolved, That it is inexpedient to elect any member of Councils to any office in the gift of, or at the disposal of Councils, or either branch thereof.

No. 1.

Dear Sir—Will you oblige me, by stating as early as you can, what offices, if any, "in the gift or at the disposal of Councils," or either of them, are required by law to be filled by members of Councils. I would also thank you for your opinion as to the legal effect of a joint resolution of Councils, that no member of them should hereafter be eligible to any office in their gift or at their disposal.

Yours, very truly,

B. GERHARD, Esq., Chairman, &c.

Dear Sir—I am requested by your note of 27th to state "what offices, if any, in the gift or disposal of Councils, or either of them, are required by law to be filled by members of Councils, and what, in my opinion, would be the legal effect of a joint resolution of Councils, that no member of them should hereafter be eligible to any office in their gift or at their disposal."

In reply to the first question, I answer, that there is no law which requires that any office in the gift or at the disposal of Councils, shall be filled by a member of Councils.

To the second, that Councils have no authority to exclude, by resolution, members of Councils from any office which they are required by any act of Assembly to elect to, if such act of Assembly does not disqualify members of Council. The act of Assembly, for example, which directs Councils to elect Guardians of the Poor, requires that the persons so elected shall be inhabitants of the city: the act to establish a Board of Health, confines their choice to taxable inhabitants of the City; and the act relating to Public Schools, requires that the appointment of School Directors shall be made from the taxable inhabitants. Any act of Councils, therefore, which would professedly exclude any class of qualified persons from election to the offices mentioned, would be inconsistent with the acts of Assembly referred to, and consequently inoperative.

Councils have undoubted authority to exclude any member thereof from any office which they themselves create, unless the authority from which they derive the power to create such office direct otherwise; and they can effect this end by the passage of a joint resolution. The effect of such a resolution would be, in my opinion, to render any member of Councils ineligible to an election to such office by either branch of Councils, or by a joint vote of Councils. But a concurrent election by both branches of Councils, of a member thereof to such office, would be valid, because such election would be a virtual repeal, or at least a suspension of such joint resolution.

Yours, very respectfully,
EDW. OLMSTED, City Solicitor.

REPORT—

To the Select and Common Councils:

The Managers of the Wills Hospital submit to Councils the following Report of their proceedings during the past year.

Since the last Report, they have incurred expenses amounting to $4,124,48, which may be classed under the following general heads:

For House Expenses,	$2,290 64
“ Salaries and Wages,	1,151 00
“ Medical Department,	247 74
“ Repairs to Real Estate,	435 10
	<hr/>
	$4,124 48
	<hr/>

The number of Patients remaining in the Hospital at the close of the year 1846, was	23
Admitted during 1847,	181	Total 204
		<hr/>

The number discharged in 1847, was	169
Leaving in the Hospital January 1st, 1848,	35
Of those discharged, 130 were cured,
28 “ relieved,
2 “ incurable
6 “ discharged by own request, &c.,
3 “ eloped.

Of the whole number in the House in 1847, there were 93 natives of the United States, 92 of Ireland, 7 of Germany, 9 of England, 1 of Switzerland, 1 of Canada, and 1 uncertain.

The Steward's account, examined by a Committee of the Board, shows that the receipts for the year from pay patients and other sources, have been $657,46.

The Board are able to assure Councils that the institution under their care is increasing in usefulness and reputation. Their means are not large; but it is a source of no little satisfaction to them to believe that there are lasting benefits conferred upon a large number of our indigent fellow beings, who seek relief from this excellent charity.

The almost exclusive attention given to affections of the eye, in all their varied forms, and the high degree of skill in their treatment attained by the excellent medical officers of the institution, have served to place the Wills Hospital in a position for the treatment of such diseases occupied by but few other institutions.

This well earned reputation is extending its sphere of usefulness, and, as a result, the Managers have received, during the past year, an increased number of applications for the admission of pay patients. There has also been an unusually large number soliciting medical advice, as out-door patients; in this way, more than two hundred persons have received the benefits of advice and medicine, as shown by the records of these cases kept by the resident physician.

A close investigation was made by the Committee of the Board, to ascertain if it were practicable to increase the number of in-door patients with the present income of the institution, which resulted in a conviction that such an increase could not be made, and the Managers may venture to express the hope that the Trust may be further increased by donation and bequest from those of our fellow citizens, who, possessed of abundant wealth, may desire to promote the interests and means of usefulness of this institution.

The Board has learned with much satisfaction, that within the past year, a legacy of $1,000 has been left in trust for the use of Wills Hospital, by the late Mr. Goldtrap.

In closing this Report, the Board takes occasion to express their satisfaction at the judicious and faithful manner in which the Medical and Household Departments have been conducted by the excellent officers on whom the duties have devolved.

Signed on behalf of the Board,

JOHN RODMAN PAUL, President.

CHARLES ELLIS, Secretary.

APPENDIX No. XXI.

To the Select and Common Councils :

The Committee on Police to whom was referred the memorial of the inhabitants of Locust Street, between Ninth and Tenth street, asking that one or more gas lamps may be placed in said square—say, at the corner of Watson's alley and of Blackberry alley,

Respectfully submit :

That it is, in their opinion, inexpedient to increase the number of lamps within said square, inasmuch as it is now lighted by more lamps than many of the squares in the thoroughfare streets of the city; it having at this time, a gas-lamp at a corner of Ninth street, another at a corner of Tenth street, and two between these, within said square.

Your Committee further submit the annexed resolution.

Committee Room, January 3, 1848.

CHAS. A. POULSON, Chairman.

JOHN TRUCKS,

ROBERT TOLAND,

JOSHUA TEVIS,

ROBERT HUTCHINSON,

A. G. WATERMAN,

JOHN P. WETHERILL,

Committee on Police.

Resolved, That the Committee on Police be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

APPENDIX, No. XXII.

To the Select and Common Councils :

The Committee appointed to inquire if there be any manuscripts relating to the city worthy of being printed, and report the same with the probable expense,

Respectfully report :—

That from among many curious and interesting documents existing in the archives of the city, they have selected one, which in their opinion has peculiar and paramount claims at this time to the attention of Councils—it is entitled,

“ Minutes of the proceedings of the Committee appointed on the 14th day of September, 1793, by the citizens of Philadelphia, the Northern Liberties, and the District of Southwark, to attend to, and alleviate the sufferings of the afflicted with the malignant fever prevalent in the city, and its vicinity; with an Appendix."

Your Committee therefore recommend that they be authorized to cause the said "Minutes" to be printed in conformity with a resolution annexed hereto, which they further respectfully beg leave to submit.

In relation to these "Minutes," your Committee deem it proper to state—that in addition to their intrinsic value as illustrations of the history of our city during a season of frightful calamity, and of the almost total prostration of its government and industry—they furnish also appropriate means of gratitude—by perpetuating in a permanent form the records of the heroic self-devotion, and chivalric deeds of those noble men who so fearlessly exposed themselves, amid disease and death, to rescue the lives and property of their fellow-citizens from destruction, and for the care and protection of the helpless and pestilence-made orphan. Such testimony of gratitude is due, and especially to the memory of the venerated Stephen Girard;—whose subsequent munificent benefactions, great as they are, have afforded no higher evidence of his beneficence, generosity and usefulness.

Among the names of Mr. Girard's associates will be found the following—

MATTHEW CLARKSON, (Mayor) President.
 THOMAS WISTAR, Treasurer.
 SAMUEL WETHERILL, Vice-President.
 JAMES SHARSWOOD,
 MATTHEW CAREY,
 CALEB LOWNES, Sec'y of the Com.
 JOHN CONNELLY,
 ISRAEL ISRAEL,
 THOMAS SAVERY,
 JOHN LETCHWORTH,
 PETER HELM,
 THOMAS HARRISON,
 JAMES KERR,
 JOHN HAWORTH,
 JAMES SWAIN,
 WILLIAM CLIFTON,
 HENRY DEFOUSH,
 JONATHAN D. SERGEANT,
 JOSEPH INSKEEP,
 ANDREW ADGATE,
 DANIEL OFFLEY.

The four last named members of the Committee, "perseveringly discharged with most benevolent attention their various duties, until death put a period to their exertions, and they fell under the blow they were warding off from others."

THOMAS WISTAR, is at this time, the only surviving member of the Committee.

Together with the daily records of the committee of citizens, there are reports of Doctors Physick, Leib, Cathrall, Annan, Duffield, Deveze, and others;—a list of the names of the sick who were admitted, died, or were discharged at the hospital, Bush-hill; an account of the contributions in money, food, clothing and medicines for the use of the poor and sick received by the Committee from Citizens of Philadelphia residing in the neighborhood, and from the State of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia;—a list of the orphans; &c.

Committee Room, Jan. 11, 1848.

CHAS. A. POULSON, Chairman.

SAUN. LEWIS,

ISAAC ELLIOTT,

ALGERNON S. ROBERTS,

Committee on Printing.

Resolved, That the "Joint Special Committee appointed to inquire if there be any manuscripts relating to the city worthy of being printed, and report the same with the probable expense" be authorized to cause to be printed in the same manner and form as the Journal of Councils from 1704 to 1776, five hundred copies of the manuscript entitled "Minutes of the proceedings of the Committee appointed on the 14th day of September, 1793, by the citizens of Philadelphia, the Northern Liberties, and the District of Southwark, to attend to, and alleviate the sufferings of the afflicted with the malignant fever prevalent in the city and its vicinity, with an Appendix." Provided the expense thereof does not exceed the sum of three hundred dollars.

APPENDIX No. XXIV.

OF
THE BUILDING COMMITTEE.

To the Select and Common Councils of the City of Philadelphia.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE GIRARD COLLEGE FOR ORPHANS, RESPECTFULLY

REPORT:

That they have the satisfaction to announce officially to Councils, the completion of the work intrusted to them, and its final transfer, on the 13th November last, to the Directors appointed for its future management.

A full account of the work, from its commencement to its close, is contained in the accompanying Report of the Architect, to which document the Committee refer Councils, for whatever information they may require, in reference to the plan and details of execution.

The total amount expended on the work, is $1,933,821 78, which is $66,178 22 within the sum specified by Mr. Girard, for the erection and endowment of the College. Had no depreciation taken place in the value of the Stocks and Loans originally set apart by the Commissioners of the Girard Estates to constitute the College Fund, a surplus of $921,714-42, would have been left to support the establishment; and, had the said stocks and loans continued to yield the rate of interest which was accruing from them at the time of the transfer, the College Fund would have amounted to about $1,500,000, after paying the whole cost of the work. The losses, however, having more than counterbalanced the accumulation of interest, it became necessary, in order to complete the work, to draw on the Residuary Fund, to the amount of $31,525 11; and the future means for conducting the College, will have to be derived from the same source.

The following statement exhibits in a condensed form, an account of the finances to the present date.

On the 20th of April, 1833, the Commissioners of the Girard Estates set apart the following Stocks and Loans, to constitute the College Fund, viz.

6331 Shares of Stock in Bank U. S., - -	$664,715 00
8 Certificates of Loan, Pennsylv-

Amount drawn from Residuary Fund, to complete the College,	31,525 11

Making the total receipts, estimating the College Fund at the Executors' valuation, $2,887,648 52

Amount expended for building the College,	$1,933,821 78

tion,	900,813 30
Amount expended by the Trustees and Directors, unconnected with the building of the College,	51,835 22
Unexpended balance of Appropriation,	1,178 22
	$2,887,648 52

The great depreciation in the value of the stocks and loans, has been the only cause of delay, in the completion of the College, beyond the time necessarily required for the proper construction of a work of so great magnitude. During the years 1841-2-3-4, the value of the stocks became so much reduced, from causes to which it is unnecessary here to allude, that the Committee deemed it more prudent to allow a partial delay of the work, than to impair the fund by unreasonable sacrifices; they consequently confined their operations, chiefly to what they might be able to accomplish out of the interest which a portion of the fund was then yielding.

As much objection has been made, during the progress of the work, to the costliness of the plan, the Committee would here take occasion to say, that such objections are without foundation, and arise from a very partial examination of the Will. It should be remembered, that Mr. Girard gave specific directions as to the length, breadth and height of the building. He directed that the whole interior should be vaulted; that the rooms, vestibules and lobbies should be floored with marble; the stairs constructed of marble; the whole exterior faced with marble; the entire building roofed with marble; and that every thing should be done in the most permanent and durable manner. Hence, there is nothing that could have been omitted, except the surrounding portico; and that is fully justified, if not required, by the injunction of Mr. Girard, that "utility and good taste should be left to determine in particulars not specified in the Will." This portico was adopted by Councils, after great deliberation, with singular unanimity; and it only remains for those who object, to look at the building, and say whether it would have been a tasteful object, had the proportions given by Mr. Girard been adhered to, and the surrounding portico omitted.

The Committee have pleasure in saying, that nothing has been left undone that would give permanency and durability to the buildings; and that all contracts have been made with strict reference to economy on the one hand, and the capability of the contractors on the other;—the agents they have employed, have all proved faithful to their trusts; and the work has been conducted, from its commencement to its close, in such a manner as to reflect the highest credit on all who have been concerned in carrying out the plans.

The designs of every part of the work have been made by THOMAS U. WALTER, Esq., the Architect of the College; to whom belongs the credit of having commenced the work, and carried it on through every difficulty to a successful completion.

The most of the marble-work has been done by American artizans, under the direction of our excellent Superintendent, Mr. FINDLEY HIGHLANDS, who, it affords the Committee pleasure to say, has conducted his department of the work in the most skilful and masterly manner.

In conclusion, the Committee would congratulate Councils upon the successful accomplishment of a work, which will ever stand as a monument to the liberality and beneficence of its Founder, and an evidence of the taste and skill of its Architect ; while at the same time it will constitute one of the proudest ornaments of the city.

REPORT OF THE ARCHITECT.

To the Building Committee of the Girard College for Orphans.

GENTLEMEN :

In pursuance of your Resolution of the 11th ult., I proceed to lay before you "a final report, embracing an account of the work from its commencement to its close."

The first subject which naturally presents itself, is the architectural design from which the buildings have been constructed. As this design is essentially different in many particulars from the plans I had the honour to submit originally to Councils, as well as from every other plan that was presented in pursuance of their advertisement, it will be proper for me to advert briefly to the circumstances which led to the change.

On the 31st of January, 1833, Councils enacted an ordinance providing for the election of a Board of Trustees for the management of the College, and on the 21st of the following March, an ordinance relating to the buildings, in which provision was made for the election of an Architect, and a Building Committee consisting of four members from each Council. The duties of the officers thus to be elected, in reference to the plans, are defined in the following extract from the latter ordinance.

"SECTION IV. The Building Committee, together with an equal number from the Board of Trustees of the Girard College for Orphans, and the Architect of the College shall, as soon as practicable, determine upon a plan for the said College building or buildings.

"SECTION V. When the said plan shall have been duly arranged by the aforesaid Building Committee, Committee of Trustees and Architect, it shall be reported to the Select and Common Councils, and if the same shall be approved by them, the said College building or buildings shall be erected agreeably thereto; provided always, that any minor arrangements which may not affect the general design and character of the buildings, may be made therein by the said Building Committee, as they may find it necessary in the prosecution of the work."

In pursuance of this ordinance Councils assembled on the 28th of March, 1833, and elected an Architect, and a Building Committee consisting of

MESSRS. JOHN GILDER,
JOSHUA LIPPINCOTT,
JOHN R. NEFF,
DENNIS M'CREDY,
JOSEPH WORRELL,
SAMUEL V. MERRICK,
JOHN BYERLY, and
EPHRAIM HAINES.

And the Trustees, in compliance with the same ordinance, appointed, as a Committee to act in conjunction with the Building Committee,

MESSRS. NICHOLAS BIDDLE,
BENJAMIN W. RICHARDS,
JOHN STEELE,
JOSEPH M'ILVAINE,
THOMAS M'EUEEN, M. D.,
THOMAS DUNLAP,
WILLIAM M. MEREDITH, and RICHARD PRICE.

The Joint Committee met on the 18th of April, 1833, and agreed that all the plans which had been previously offered to Councils, should be set aside, and that the Architect be directed to prepare a new design for the main-building, with a portico embracing the whole three stories in height, extending around the entire structure after the manner of a Greek temple, and conforming, in the dimensions and form of the cella or body of the building, to the directions laid down in the Will of Mr. Girard.

Upon these general instructions, and the directions of the Will, I founded the present design, which was finally adopted by Councils on the 29th of April, 1833; the excavations for the foundations were commenced on the 6th of May, the corner stone was laid on the 4th of the following July, and the whole establishment completed and transferred to the Directors on the 13th of November, 1847, making fourteen years and six months as the entire period occupied in the execution of the work.

EXTERIOR OF THE MAIN-BUILDING.

The general design of the building is that of a Greek temple, having eight columns on each end and eleven on each side (counting the corner columns both ways,) making in all thirty-four columns. Had no other consideration entered into the design of this peristyle, than what taste alone would suggest, I should undoubtedly have made the flanks at least four columns more in length; but the length, breadth and height of the cella having been established by Mr. Girard in his Will, there was no alternative left but to make the cella according to the specified dimensions, and adapt the peristyle to it as best I might, without regarding the relative proportion between the front and flanks.

The order of architecture in which the exterior is composed, is the Grecian Corinthian: the columns are 6 feet in diameter and 55 feet in height; the basis are 9 feet 3 inches in diameter and 3 feet 2 inches high, and the capitals are 8 feet 6 inches high and 9 feet 4 inches wide on the face of the abacus. The corner columns have $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches more diameter than the immediate ones, for the purpose of overcoming the apparent reduction in their size arising from their insulated position. Each frustum composing the shafts, as well as the basis, consists of a single piece without vertical joints.

The shafts are composed of frusta measuring from 2 feet 6 inches to 6 feet 3 inches in height, accurately jointed and set on milled lead;—each shaft is channeled in 24 semi-circular flutes, with fillets terminating, under the capital, in water leaves.

The capitals are each constructed in four courses;—the first course consists of a single piece of 1 foot 7 inches in height, embracing an annular row of sixteen water leaves;—the second is likewise composed of one piece, which measures 2 feet 9 inches in height, and contains an annular row of eight acanthus leaves;—the third course consists of two pieces with a vertical joint running through the middle; it measures 2 feet 11 inches in height, and embraces the volutes and the cauliculi;—and the fourth course constitutes the abacus, the height of which is 1 foot 3 inches; this course is composed of four pieces, the vertical joints being obscured by honeysuckles dove-tailed into the bell, thus making each capital to consist of twelve separate pieces, all of which are securely doveled and cramped together, and the joints so disposed between the cauliculi, as not to be observed.

These capitals have all been executed on the grounds of the College, of marble from Chester county in our own State, and the most of the work has been done by American artisans. As a specimen of architectural sculpture, they will not suffer by comparison with the most admired structures of ancient or modern times.

The net amount of marble in each column, including the base and capital, is 1346 cubic feet, the weight 103 tons, and the cost $12,994, as follows :

It has often been objected that the use of so rich and ornate an order, involved unnecessary expense, and that either of the plainer orders would have been cheaper ; but such is not the fact ; the height of the order having been established by the height of the building, as laid down in the Will, and the diameter of whatever column might be adopted, having of course to be determined by its height, it is very evident that either the Doric or the Ionic, both being of more massive proportions, would have required a much greater quantity of marble than the Corinthian, and would have greatly exceeded it in costliness, inasmuch as the material in the rough constitutes the chief expense of the column. The cost of a single column of the present order, according to the foregoing statement, is $12,994, of which the marble in the rough cost $10,028, and the workmanship, including hoisting, setting,

&c., but $2,966; thus showing how greatly the material in the rough exceeds the workmanship in cost.—Had the Ionic order been adopted, the marble for a single column would have cost, at the rate paid for that of the present order, about $14,500, or $1500 more than the whole cost of the present column, including workmanship. The Doric order would have been still more expensive, if indeed the material could have been procured at any price, as it would have required columns of nine and a half feet in diameter. It is therefore evident that the Corinthian order, although the most ornate, is much the cheapest when executed on so large a scale.

The architrave over each intercolumniation, consists of four blocks of marble 21 feet 5 inches in length, 4 feet 2 inches in height, and 1 foot 4½ inches in thickness, extending from column to column. Although it can scarcely be doubted that stones of these dimensions would have been sufficiently strong to have sustained the superincumbent weight without danger to the edifice, it was, nevertheless, possible that future dilapidation might arise from undeveloped imperfections in the material, should no provision be made to guard against it.—I therefore deemed it prudent to relieve these architraves of all superincumbent weight, by resolving it directly on the columns. This is accomplished by placing a block of granite of 2 feet by 2 feet 10 inches, and 6 feet 4 inches in height, on the top of each column, extending through the architraves; from the top of these blocks a brick arch is turned over each intercolumniation behind the frieze, to receive the weight of the cornice; the frieze is likewise constructed on the principles of an arch, and is kept entirely clear of the architrave, the springers being supported by the granite blocks on the head of the columns, so that every architrave in the peristyle might be taken out without interfering with the stability of the structure.

The cornice consists of a congeries of mouldings, enriched with a dental band and crowned with a sculptured cymatium of 2 feet 4 inches in height. The extreme projection of the cornice from the face of the architrave is 4 feet; and its height 7 feet 6 inches. The whole height of the entablature is 16 feet 4 inches, and of the pediment, from the top of the cymatium, 19 feet 8 inches; making the height, from the top of the columns to the apex of the pediment, 34 feet, and the elevation of the pediment, one-ninth of the span.

The exterior of the cella or body of the building, measures 111 feet wide, 169 feet long, and 59 feet 8 inches high, including the architrave, which corresponds with that of the peristyle. The corners of the cella are finished with projecting antæ of 5 feet 6 inches in width, having bases to correspond with those of the columns.

The doors of entrance are in the north and south fronts; each door measures 16 feet wide and 32 feet high, in the clear, trimmed on the outside with moulded antepagmenta of 2 feet 7 inches in width, and crowned with a projecting cornice supported by richly carved consoles, of 1 foot 4 inches in width by 5 feet 6 inches in height.

Each flank is pierced with 20 windows, four of which open into each room, and one on each flight of stairs; those which open into the rooms are grouped and divided by Greek antæ surmounted by architraves and cornices.

The superstructure rests on a stylobate or basement consisting of eleven steps, which extend around the entire edifice, thus imparting a pyramidal appearance to the substructure, which conveys an idea of great solidity, and at the same time affords an approach to the peristyle from all sides. The steps are constructed of blocks of marble of 10 feet in length, rebated the one into the other, and secured to the foundations by means of heavy cramp-irons; they are supported by cross-walls built 5 feet from centre to centre, in which openings are left so as to allow a free passage around the whole building. The floor of the peristyle is composed of slabs of marble 4 inches in thickness accurately jointed and laid with hollow spaces under them, which communicate with the area under the steps and with the cellars in which are the furnaces;—a continual circulation of air, at a temperature much above the freezing point, is thus kept up under all the steps, as well as under the floor of the peristyle: this arrangement had the effect of preserving both the floor and the steps, during the past winter, from the slightest fracture from the frost, even on the northern end of the building, and I have no doubt that it will be an effectual preventive against future dilapidation in these portions of the work.

The whole of the exterior is composed of marble of a very superior quality; that of the east and west flanks, and the north front of the cella, the steps, the floor of the peristyle, the roof, the interior floors, and the inside stairways, was obtained from Montgomery county, Pa.; the capitals of the columns, with a considerable portion of the bases and shafts, the south front of the cella, and part of the interior columns, came from Chester county, Pa.; and the remainder, consisting of portions of the shafts and bases of the columns, and the entablature of the peristyle, with the rest of the interior columns, was procured from Egremont, Mass.

Every block of marble in the building is set on pieces of milled lead, for the purpose of preventing fracture at the joints, and every stone is doweled into the stones above and below, and at each end, and securely cramped to the brick-work and to the adjacent stones, by means of heavy cramp-irons.

The ceiling of the peristyle is composed entirely of cast-iron, enriched with deep-sunken panels, and painted and sanded in imitation of marble; the weight of the cast-iron is $142\frac{1}{2}$ tons, or $4\frac{3}{4}$ tons for each intercolumnation, and the entire cost of the ceiling, \$14,162.

The roof is composed of marble tiles four and a-half feet long, four feet wide, and two and three-fourth inches thick in the middle, the sides being elevated an inch and a-half above the general surface, to prevent the water from running into the joints at their junction;—each of these joints is covered with a marble saddle four and a-half feet in length, ten inches in width, and six and a-half inches in thickness, hollowed out on the under side so as to embrace the ridges on two adjacent tiles.

Every superior tile overlaps the one below it six inches, and the under side is grooved and fitted to corresponding ridges and projections on the surface, so as to prevent the admission of water, either from the force of beating rains or from capillary attraction; and at the same time their design is such as to admit of their being laid without coming actually in contact with each other, thus rendering them free to expand and contract with the various changes of temperature, without producing leaks.

These tiles rest on 9 inch brick walls, built four feet apart from centre to centre, across the whole building, on the upper surface of the third story arches. This plan of support affords access at all times to the under side of every tile, and facilitates the process of inspection in case of leakage.

The weight of each roofing tile is 776 lbs., and of each saddle 214 lbs.; the whole number of tiles in the roof being 2046, and of saddles 2061, the aggregate weight of the tiles and saddles is 906 tons; in addition to which the marble chimney tops and the cast-iron skylights weigh 20 tons, and the lead and masonry of the gutters $43\frac{1}{2}$ tons; making the entire weight of the roof $969\frac{1}{2}$ tons, exclusive of the brick-work which supports it.

The gutters are composed of bricks and flagstones laid in hydraulic cement, and covered with heavy milled lead, painted and sanded; they are so formed as to prevent any water from running over the eaves, by which the cornices will be protected from defacement and premature decay.

The water is conveyed from the roof by means of four conductors, composed of heavy cast-iron pipes of 10 inches caliber, securely put together and embedded in the walls.

The skylights are composed of cast-iron tiles and saddles, so formed as to present an exterior appearance corresponding with the rest of the roof; in the centre of each tile two lights of glass are inserted, measuring 19 inches in width, 42 inches in length, and $\frac{1}{2}$ an inch in thickness;—nine of these tiles, containing eighteen lights of the above dimensions, are placed over each of the rooms in the upper story, and six tiles, having twelve lights, over each stairway. The weight of the cast-iron composing these skylights is $15\frac{1}{2}$ tons, and the cost, including glass and workmanship, \$2800.

INTERIOR OF THE MAIN-BUILDING.

Mr. Girard directs, in reference to the disposition of the interior, as follows: “there shall be in each story four rooms, each room not less than 50 feet square in the clear; the four rooms on each floor to occupy the whole space east and west of such floor or story, and the middle of the building north and south; so that in the north of the building and in the south thereof, there may remain a space of equal dimensions, for an entry or hall in each for stairs and landings.”* This disposition of the interior left no scope for design in the arrangement of the rooms and vestibules; the directions of the Will in this particular were positive and explicit, and left no alternative but to divide the interior precisely as it is.

The building is three stories in height, the first and second stories being 25 feet from floor to floor, and the third story 30 feet in the clear to the eye of the dome; each story is divided, as directed by the Will, into 4 rooms, each 50 feet square in the clear.

All the outside foundation walls of the cella, and the walls separating the cellars under the rooms from those under the vestibules, are 6 feet 4 inches thick, and the rest of the interior foundation walls 3 feet 4 inches; the thickness of the wall for supporting the columns is 9 feet 9 inches, and the inter-columniations, as well as all other openings, are counter-arched with bricks.

The outside walls of the superstructure, and the interior vestibule walls, are 4 feet in thickness, and the rest of the interior walls 3 feet.

All the rooms and vestibules in the building are vaulted with bricks; those of the basement, first and second stories, with groin arches,* and those of the third story with pendentive domes springing from the floors.

The piers from which the groin arches spring are 4 feet square, with projections of 1 foot by 2 feet in the angles to support the bands; they are composed of bricks and dressed granite, laid in alternate sections. The arches are composed of hard burnt paving bricks, and mortar made of lime, hydraulic cement and sharp sand. The keys are made of marble 4 inches wide on the under side and 6 inches on the top, and are all accurately dressed and fitted to their places by the stonecutters, after the brick-work was made ready to receive them.

The chord of these arches, on the diagonal, is 60 feet, and their versed sine, or rise, but 8 feet. Each arch, including its abutments, contains 117,000 bricks, which, together with the marble floor on top, makes the weight suspended over each room about 350 tons.

The third story arches spring out of the corners of the rooms, the horizontal section at the floor, or springing line, being 4 feet square, with bands of 1 foot 6 inches by 4 feet. These bands form semicircular arches on the four walls of each room, of 32 feet 2 inches in diameter, and, from their angles at the floor, spring the pendentives. The horizontal section of each room is thus resolved into a circle at the top of the bands, and crowned with a dome; the dome as well as the bands and pendentives, are enriched with deep coverings, and the eye of the dome is finished with an ornamental fret, and covered with an inner skylight of 16 feet in diameter. The domes over the four stairways, are similar to those of the rooms, and have inner skylights of 10 feet in diameter.

The lateral thrust of the arches is resisted by iron bands of 1 inch by 5 inches, extending around all the rooms and vestibules. One of these bands is placed one foot below the spring, and another one foot above the spring of the first and second story arches, and one immediately at the spring of those of the third story, making five complete bands around the building, and through all the interior walls.

Three bands of similar dimensions extend around the portico, one being embedded in each regula or architrave mould-

* The reverberation of sound in these rooms, in consequence of their magnitude and their arch-formed ceilings, renders them wholly unfit for use; and unless a level ceiling is thrown in at the top of the cornice, or some other means adopted to destroy the reverberation, they can never be used for the purposes of school or recitation rooms. They are, however, constructed in exact accordance with the Will, and these results were anticipated in the earliest stages of the work, but as Mr. Girard left no discretionary power in reference to this part of the design, we were compelled to take the letter of the Will as our guide, let the results be what they might.

ing, and one through the frieze; cross bars are introduced between the building and the entablature, extending from the upper bar which belts the building to the frieze over each column, where they are secured to the top of the granite posts before described.

All the bars are put together with rivets, and tightened by means of draw-wedges, and all the corners are turned around granite posts of 6 feet in height, built in the centre of the groin piers. In order to give additional strength to the banding, diagonal bars are introduced across each groin pier, and securely riveted to the principal bands.

The aggregate length of all the bars of this description used throughout the building, is 12,744 feet, and its weight 114 tons; it was all made by the process of piling and rolling, in lengths of 15 feet, and the most of it was manufactured of the best Lancaster county and Juniata blooms. The whole cost of the banding was $14,400.

The introduction of so large a quantity of iron in the construction of the walls caused considerable apprehension, in the early stages of the work, as to whether its expansible properties might not in some degree affect the permanency of the structure; I was therefore induced to make a series of experiments, for the purpose of discovering the actual difference of temperature produced in the middle of the walls by the extreme heat of summer and the severest cold of winter.

These experiments gave 42° of Fahrenheit, as the lowest temperature to which the bars are subjected, and 61° as the highest; making a difference of but 19° in the heart of the walls, between the extremes of summer and winter, while the outside difference was 97°. By referring to the experiments of Smeaton, Borda, Lavoisier, La Place and others, I found that the expansion produced in iron by an increase of temperature of 19°, was much less than that produced on the brick-work composing the outer surface of the wall, thus affording conclusive evidence that the permanency of the College can never be impaired by the expansible properties of the iron used in banding the arches. A full account of these experiments will be found in my Fifth Annual Report.

The vestibules in the first story, and the lobbies over them in the second and third stories, occupy the northern and southern ends of the building, as directed by the Will; they are each 25 by 50 feet, exclusive of the space occupied by the stairways. The vaulting of each vestibule and of each lobby, springs from marble entablatures supported by eight columns and as many antæ, making in all forty-eight columns and forty-eight antæ. The shafts of these columns are each composed of a single stone; the order of those in the first story is Ionic, in the second story a modified Corinthian from the Tower of the Winds at Athens, and the third, a similar modification of the Corinthian, somewhat lighter and more ornate.

The stairways are situated in the four corners of the building, the spaces allotted to them being each 22 feet 6 inches wide and 26 feet 6 inches long. They are all composed of white marble, and are 5 feet 3 inches in width, with two landings or "quarter paces" in each story. The plan on which they are constructed is that of "geometrical stairs," having one end of each step secured in the wall, and one edge resting on the step below.

All the stairways as well as the landings, in the upper stories, are finished with rich balustrades of cast-iron and mahogany rails, springing from massy marble newels. The cost of these stairways, including the balustrade, was $18,500.

The flooring of the interior of the building amounts in the aggregate to 38,130 superficial feet, all of which is done with marble tiles prepared expressly for the work; they are sawed of uniform thickness, and the edges worked square so as to prevent them from becoming loose, as is usually the case with tiles that are not uniform throughout.

The building is warmed by means of four furnaces placed under the vestibules, with flues to convey the warm air to the several rooms.

The following are the materials used in the construction of the main-building.

The area on which the building stands, exclusive of the steps, measures 34,344 superficial feet, of which 12,862 feet are occupied by the walls, making the proportion of the points of support to the voids, more than as one to two. The average weight resolved on each superficial foot of foundation, is about six tons.

OUT-BUILDINGS.

Mr. Girard directs in his Will, that "there shall be erected a permanent College, with suitable out-buildings, sufficiently spacious for the residence and accommodation of at least three hundred scholars, and the requisite teachers and other persons necessary in such an institution;" and he further directs that "there should be at least four out-buildings, detached from the main-edifice and from each other, and in such positions as shall at once answer the purposes of the Institution, and be consistent with the symmetry of the whole establishment."*

These "four out-buildings" have been all erected—two on the eastern and two on the western side of the College; they stand on the same general range, fronting north and south, the first being at the distance of 140 feet from the main-building, and the two buildings having an interval between them of 87 feet.

Each of these buildings measures 52 feet wide by 125 feet long;—they are three stories in height, with a basement of 7 feet above the surface of the ground, and are all faced with marble and roofed with copper.

The eastern building nearest the College is designed for the residence of 100 of the youngest pupils. The basement is vaulted with bricks, and contains a kitchen measuring 19 by 54 feet, a refectory of similar dimensions, a lavatory, a pantry, and the necessary cellars for fuel. The principal story contains two sitting or living rooms for the students of 19 by 54 feet, a suite of parlors for the matron, a suite of parlors for the tutors and governesses, a dining-room for the officers, and a room for the directors. The second and third stories have each two dormitories for the students measuring 19 by 54 feet, and six chambers for the tutors, governesses and domestics. An entry or hall of eight feet in width, extends the whole length of the building on every floor or story. The stairways are situated at each end of the halls, and are composed of marble with wrought-iron balustrades.

The easternmost building embraces four separate and complete dwelling houses for the officers of the institution.

* See printed copy of Will, pages 16 & 23.

The western building nearest the College is intended for the more advanced pupils; it contains in the basement, a refectory for the students of both the western buildings, measuring 18 feet 6 inches in width by 120 feet in length, a kitchen, a scullery, a bakery with two large baker's ovens, and a store-room. The principal story contains four sitting or living rooms, each 19 by 39 feet, for the students, four rooms for the tutors, and a clothes' room. The second and third stories each contains four dormitories of 19 by 39 feet for the students, and five chambers. A covered passage of 11 feet 6 inches in width, is constructed between this and the westernmost building, which is fitted up as a lavatory.

The westernmost building being designed for the students most advanced, is divided into 62 small dormitories;—the basement contains a laundry, an ironing room, a linen room, a drying room, a lavatory, a store room, a bath room, and a shoe room. Both of the western buildings have cellars under the basements, and marble stairways throughout, opening into halls of 8 feet in width, which extend from end to end of the buildings on every floor or story.

The spaces between the buildings, both on the east and on the west of the College, are inclosed by marble walls and divided into gardens and play grounds for the pupils.

WALL SURROUNDING THE ESTATE.

The whole establishment is inclosed by a wall of 10 feet in height (above the regulation of the surrounding streets) by 16 inches in thickness, with spur piers on the inside, and buttresses of 3 feet in width on the outside, disposed throughout, at intervals of 14 feet; it is composed of rubble stone and covered with a heavy marble capping, and its entire length is 6843 feet, or something more than one and a quarter miles.

There are two gates of entrance, one opposite the north and the other opposite the south front of the main-building. At the southern entrance are two octagonal lodges, one of which has been finished as a lodging and living room for the porter, and the other is floored with marble and finished as an entrance to the College. These lodges are each 20 feet in diameter, and 16 feet high, faced with white marble.—The double gates of entrance prescribed by Mr. Girard are hung between them, and the outer or wooden gate folds into a recess in the marble work.

The northern entrance consists of two rusticated marble piers, 5 feet wide by 6 feet deep and 13 feet high, crowned with a projecting cornice and blocking, and finished with an iron gate on the inside and a wooden gate on the outside, similar to those at the southern entrance.

THE GROUNDS.

The eastern portion of the grounds, extending from the Ridge Road to the intersection of the western line of Front street from Schuylkill, with the northern and southern boundaries of the estate, containing 21 acres, has been graded to suit the elevation of the several buildings and the surrounding streets, and laid out in gravel walks with paved walks of bricks, between and around all the buildings.

On the western portion of the estate, which contains about 20 acres, have been erected a convenient farm house, barn and out-houses, and is now under culture. The farm house is constructed of the materials of the old mansion formerly called Peel Hall, which originally occupied the site on which the main College building now stands.

The grounds around the College, as well as the College buildings, are drained by means of a three feet culvert, and branch barrel drains of two feet leading from the several yards, kitchens, lavatories, &c., and discharging in a ravine on the western end of the estate.

An avenue of sixty feet in width has been opened on the northern, western and southern boundaries, one-half of which has been taken from the College grounds, in pursuance of an act of the legislature, and with the assent of Councils, and the other half has been ceded by the owners of the adjoining land.

WATER WORKS.

The supply of water is obtained by a water power derived from several springs which rise on the western end of the estate;—these springs are collected into one reservoir, and furnish an aggregate of 15 gallons per minute, at an elevation of 14 feet;—with the power thus obtained, a hydraulic ram is kept continually in motion day and night, by which 2400 gallons of water are thrown into two distributing reservoirs in the out-buildings, every 24 hours, at an elevation of 93 feet, through a pipe of one inch caliber and 2300 feet in length.

The reservoirs are constructed in the third story of the two buildings nearest the College, and contain together 3800 gallons. From these reservoirs, pipes are laid to the laundry, bath room, lavatories, kitchens, yards, &c., which are supplied at a head of 35 feet.

The necessity for seeking a supply of water on the grounds, is found in the fact that the water in the reservoirs at Fair

Mount is 26 feet below the surface of the ground at the College; the basin of the Spring Garden water-works is also below the level necessary to convey the water to the buildings.

A plan was suggested and acted upon by the Building Committee as long ago as 1839, for obtaining the water from Fair Mount by means of additional works; it will however be found, by referring to the estimate in my Sixth Annual Report, that the sum of $35,000 would have been required to carry out this plan, while the expense of the present arrangement has not exceeded $5000, including all the hydrants, baths, laundries and lavatories. It should however be remarked, that although the present plan furnishes an ample supply of pure and wholesome water for all the purposes of the College, the former plan was far more complete and certain, and contemplated conveniences which are not now obtained;—the chief reasons for adopting the present arrangement, were suggested alone by considerations of economy.

The whole cost of the College buildings, including the wall for inclosing the estate, the entrance lodges, the improvements of the grounds, and every expense incurred in the work, is $1,933,821 78, of which there were expended—

APPENDIX No. XXIX.

To the Select and Common Councils.

The Joint Special Committee appointed by Councils on the 20th January, 1848, to whom was referred the Thirteenth Annual Report of the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works, Respectfully

REPORT—

That they have considered the Report of the Trustees with particular reference to the suggestions, in relation to a new Loan of about $60,000. And have concluded to present to Councils an ordinance hereto annexed, framed for the purpose of carrying out the wishes of the Trustees. In doing this the Committee think proper to embody a brief statement of such information as may be requisite to convey a general knowledge of the present condition of the Gas Works.

The Committee on invitation had an interview with the Trustees, who freely communicated their views in relation to the course deemed most expedient to be adopted, and also such other information as was inquired for.

The Gas Works were commenced in the year 1835, by virtue of an ordinance of Councils, authorizing a subscription for a certain number of shares of Stock (not exceeding in amount $125,000,) by all persons of lawful age, &c., who were to be entitled to a pro rata proportion of the profits ; with a provision that the City Corporation when it should be deemed expedient to do so, should take possession of said works, and convert the said Stock into a Loan—Accordingly by virtue of the provisions of an ordinance of July 1, 1841, the Gas Works became and now are the property of the City Corporation. Since the commencement of the works, there has been a successive increase of new loans required, so that at present, as appears by the Report of the Trustees, they amount to the sum of $600,000. This increase of capital has had for its foundation, the necessity of supplying the increasing demand for consumption of gas.

Ordinances have been passed from time to time providing for a Sinking fund, calculated to pay the several Loans at maturity—To the credit of this Fund, there are investments which cost $231,421 75. There is also a balance belonging to the Sinking Fund, not yet invested by the Trustees, amounting to $23,359 42. By ordinance of June 20, 1844, Trustees were authorized and directed to reduce the price then charged to private consumers of gas, from time to time, in such manner, however, that the net profits arising from the manufacture and sale of gas, shall be equal to eight per cent. per annum on the whole amount of loans; and to the sum of $20,000 per annum, in addition thereto: the eight per cent. to be appropriated to Interest and Loans, and to the Sinking Fund—the $20,000, to repairs, renewals, &c. By ordinance of May 7, 1846, the Trustees were authorized to retain out of the profits of the Gas Works before making any reduction in the price of gas to private consumers, such sum not exceeding $30,000, as they may deem necessary for the gradual enlargement of the works, the extension of the distribution of gas, and for extraordinary repairs and renewals of said works.

The price of gas now charged to private consumers is $2 50 per thousand cubic feet, which is believed to be lower than is furnished to consumers of gas elsewhere in the United States.

The profits of the works over and above all expenses, the amount to be appropriated to Interest, and to the Sinking Fund, in the year 1847, were $47,368 20—Showing a balance of profit of $17,368 20, exclusive of the $30,000, aforesaid, the whole of which have been expended in the general establishment.

These extraordinary outlays are accounted for by the anxiety on the part of the Trustees to supply the increased demand for consumption of gas. The quantity of gas manufactured in 1845, was 65,003,000 cubic feet; in 1846, 75,454,000 cubic feet; and in 1847, 91,547,000 cubic feet. Showing an increase of product in 1847 over 1846, of about 22 per cent.

In 1846 a contract was entered into, to supply the District of Spring Garden with gas, which district consumed 2,670,000 cubic feet since August 1846, a period of about 16 months.

A contract of like effect has been entered into with the District of Moyamensing. And it is probable that the consumption in these districts will greatly increase; so that it is alleged, that if the demand for 1848 should be in the same increasing ratio with 1847, the capacity of the works will not be sufficient for a supply.

The Committee do not express an opinion as to the expediency of having entered into contracts for a supply of gas to the Districts, while it was doubtful whether the capacity of the works could satisfy the demand without enlargement, requiring an additional loan of money; but advert to the subject, for the purpose of calling the attention of Councils to the question, whether it will not be practicable to supply the probable increase of demand for consumption, by a gradual increase of the works, by means of the appropriation of the entire profits, at present prices for gas, and without a new loan.

The new gas holder, the tank for which is already completed, will cost about $20,000, and will furnish storage for about 200,000 cubic feet, making the whole amount of storage at the works, about 680,000 cubic feet. And which may be considered the maximum productive power of the present works.

The contemplated new works to consist of a Retort house with its chimney and purifying apparatus, will cost about $50,000, and is based on a plan calculated to double the manufacturing capacity of the works, exclusive of storage. The profits of the works for the year 1848, provided there shall be no reduction of gas, will probably exceed $50,000.

Total,	$343,508 00

	$325,508 00

It will be observed that the appropriations to the following Committees, to wit: the Watering Committee, the Committee on Public Highways, and the Committee on City Property, are somewhat increased, but the rapid growth of our City, particularly the North-west, seems to call for such liberal but moderate increase, as would be conducive to the comfort and advantage of the same.

The Interest on the Pennsylvania Railroad Loan, and the increase of the Police, are the prominent causes of the increase of the City Tax. To these may be added, however, as extraordinary expenses, the extension of Water Pipes, and the substitution of iron for old wooden ones,—the demand for new paving, which seems to be required, and the repairs and improvements to be made by the Committee on City Property to the city property.

The City will be called upon this year by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for Four Hundred Thousand Dollars—a sum to be raised by a new Loan—the interest on which, together with the other items alluded to above, will make it necessary to increase the rate of taxation, or resort to additional loans.

It is the opinion of the Committee that the preferable mode to meet these demands, is by a resort to taxation in preference to loans, and therefore they recommend that the tax on the real estate of the City be, for the present year, fixed at Fifty-eight cents on every One Hundred Dollars.

The Committee are happy to state that the Loan which falls due on the 1st July next, is amply provided for by the accumulation to the Sinking Fund.

The draft of an Ordinance is annexed, making the appropriations, and also one providing for such means as may be determined upon by Councils to meet the appropriations.

An Ordinance

Relating to Water Street.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Citizens of Philadelphia, in Select and Common Councils assembled, That the Committee on Public Highways be, and they are hereby authorized and directed to pay to James McCann the sum of two thousand six hundred dollars: to Robert Huckel, the sum of nine hundred dollars; to Catharine Dredger, the sum of one thousand dollars: to Samuel Grant, the sum of seven hundred dollars: to Thomas P. Cope, the sum of two thousand dollars: to the Representatives of the estate of William Feinour deceased, the sum of one thousand one hundred dollars: to the Trustees of the estate of William Phillips, the sum of nine hundred dollars: to William Rushworth, the sum of two thousand dollars: to Paltial S. Rowland, the sum of one thousand dollars; to Robert J. Stockton, and Robert L. Stevens, the sum of one thousand three hundred and fifty dollars: the said sums being the amounts awarded to the said parties respectively as damages for injury done to their property, situate on the east side of Water Street, by the laying out of Water Street anew, as appears by the report of a jury filed in the Court of Quarter Sessions on the 25th day of January, 1848.

SECTION 2. That the sum of thirteen thousand five hundred and fifty dollars out of the income of the fund appropriated under the twenty-second item of the will of Stephen Girard for the improvement of the eastern front of the City and Delaware Avenue, be appropriated to the expense of carrying into effect this ordinance: to be paid in the manner that appropriations for Delaware Avenue are directed to be paid in the several ordinances relating thereto.

APPENDIX No. XXXIII.

A Supplement to an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance to establish a night and day Police, and to provide for the lighting of the public lamps, in the City of Philadelphia," passed March 16th, 1848.

SECT. 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Citizens of Philadelphia, in Select and Common Councils assembled, That the compensation to be received by the night policemen to be appointed under the ordinance to which this is a supplement, shall be three hundred and sixty-five dollars per annum, and that the Committee on Police furnish each night policeman with a suitable overcoat as heretofore.

APPENDIX No. XXXIV.

The Police Committee to whom was referred a petition to Councils, asking that Second street from High to Chesnut street, may be reinstated as a stand for market wagons, beg leave to Report, that they have had the same under consideration, and by reference they find that the same subject was considerably agitated for some time, and two years ago Councils were induced by petitions to vacate Second street as above, for one year, as an experiment, the wagons were removed, and at the end of that period Councils then made the vacation permanent. Your Committee can see no just grounds to renew the old ordinance for any speculative purpose of procuring a larger amount of trade to one portion of a community, (greater or smaller,) where it is not pretended that the actual benefits to the city at large are in any degree diminished by present engagements. Nor have the country people interested (in the matter) made any complaints before Councils, that their interests are injured by the change.

Therefore, your Committee think it inexpedient to grant the prayer of the petitioners, and ask to be discharged from the further consideration thereof, and append a resolution to that effect.

March 30, 1848.

A Supplement to an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for auditing and controlling the expenditures of the City," passed October 1, 1835.

SECT. 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Citizens of Philadelphia, in Select and Common Councils assembled, That so much of the first section of the ordinance to which this is a supplement, as provides for the appointment of the Building Committee of the Girard College, be and the same is hereby repealed.

An Ordinance making an appropriation to the Board of Commissioners of the Girard Estates, for the use of the Girard College for Orphans.

SECT. 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Citizens of Philadelphia, in Select and Common Councils assembled, That the Treasurer of the Girard Fund be, and he is hereby directed to transfer the sum of one thousand one hundred and seventy-eight dollars and twenty-two cents, the amount of unexpended appropriations heretofore made to the Building Committee of the Girard College, to the Board of Commissioners of the Girard Estates, for the use of the Girard College for Orphans, to be appropriated to the item "furniture."

APPENDIX No. XXXVI.

To the Select and Common Councils.

The Committee on Police, respectfully beg leave to state,—

That in order more effectually to promote and secure the purposes of the ordinance passed by Councils on the 30th ultimo, providing for the “establishment of a night and day police, and for lighting the public lamps, in the city of Philadelphia,” it has become necessary to enlarge the present means of accommodation in the station houses, commensurate with the increased number of men—policemen and lamplighters—to be organized under said ordinance; and also to provide further means for the detention of prisoners, within the station house in the south-west division of the city.

Each station house should contain an apartment large enough for the reception of the whole number of policemen and lamplighters attached to the division in which it is situated; it should also contain a room or rooms provided with conveniences for the repose of the night policemen when off active duty; and sufficient lock-up rooms for the temporary safe keeping of prisoners captured during the night or day time, pending their examination by Magistrates.

By the following brief account of the station houses it will be perceived how far our present means are available for the use of the increased number of policemen, and the lamplighters, exhibiting too the deficiencies therein; and as it is hoped the urgent necessity of supplying immediate relief.

First, In the north-west station house, situated in Filbert street, west of Schuylkill Eighth street, there is ample space; and the premises are in every particular well adapted to the purposes they were designed for, requiring at this time only such alterations as the new policemen and lamplighters will require, viz :—the appropriation of an apartment to their use, now in the occupancy of the captain of the watch, bunks, &c., all of which can be done at a small comparative expense.

Second, The north-east station house,—situated in Cherry street, west of Fourth street,—by repairing or rebuilding the house recently injured by fire in the rear of, and adjoining it, two rooms will be added to the other conveniences of this establishment—it then will be sufficient for the accommodation of the new police. These premises (the burnt house,) by a recent resolution of Councils, have passed from the custody of the Committee on City property, to the care of the Committee on Police, who are also by said resolution, authorized to prepare the same for police purposes, provided the expense shall not exceed the sum of twelve hundred dollars.

Third, In relation to the station-house in the south-west division,—situated in Broad street near Locust street,—it may be proper to state, that it is a rented house, and has always been considered as a temporary arrangement; such it truly is. The want of sufficient room for assembling the men, even for roll call, and its destitution of apartments for safe keeping of prisoners, have for a long time been causes of great inconvenience, as they have been subjects of repeated complaints and remonstrance by former committees to Councils—especially because of the deficiency of lock-up rooms. Under the new arrangement of Police a larger building must be provided.

Fourth, The station-house in the south-east division,—Comptroller street,—is also a rented house, and altogether inadequate to receive an increased number of men. Exclusive of the lock-up rooms and the cellar, this building contains but one other room, hitherto used for assembling the watchmen; consequently it will afford to the men under the new organization, no conveniences of rest during their relief from duty abroad. Hence a more commodious building is required.

In conclusion, your Committee further beg leave respectfully to present, and earnestly recommend the passage of the Bill annexed into an ordinance, believing that such action on the part of Councils is at this time urgently required.

An Ordinance

To authorize the Committee on Police to provide Station-houses in the Police districts No. 1, and No. 3, and making an appropriation therefor.

SECT. 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Citizens of Philadelphia, in Select and Common Councils assembled,

That the Committee on Police be and they are hereby authorized to provide station-houses suitable for police purposes in the Police districts No. 1, and No. 3.

SECT. 2. That the sum of thirteen thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated to the Committee on Police, for the purpose of carrying into effect this ordinance.

APPENDIX No. XXXVII.

To the Select and Common Councils.

The Committee on Public Highways to whom was referred sundry Petitions relating to the present sewer in Walnut and Dock streets, respectfully Report :

That they have passed the following resolution, to wit :
 “ Resolved, That in the opinion of this Committee it is expedient to remedy the defects of so much of the Dock street culvert as is defective, by the construction of a new one along side or in place of the one now existing, of sufficient capacity to carry off the drainage.”

In conformity with the above resolution, the Committee obtained from the City Surveyor a profile plan of the sewer in Walnut street, from midway between Delaware Fourth and Fifth streets to Dock street, thence along Dock street to the river Delaware. Together with a report from the City Surveyor of an estimate of the probable cost of a sewer to be constructed in the same place, or along side of the defective part of the present sewer in Dock street, from Walnut street to the Tobacco warehouse, making the amount of the whole cost to be Fifteen thousand five hundred dollars. The Committee annex the plan and report of the Surveyor to their report, and also an Ordinance to authorize the construction of a culvert in Dock street, and ask its passage.

Respectfully submitted,

April 13, 1848.

TO SAUNDERS LEWIS, ESQ.,

Chairman of the Committee on Public Highways.

SIR :—Agreeable to your instructions I proceed to make a plan and estimate, of a sewer to be constructed in the same place, or along side of the defective part of the present sewer in Dock street, which it is believed extends from Walnut street to the Tobacco warehouse.

In a former communication I stated that the sewer in Walnut west of Dock street, was 8 ft. 6 in. in diameter in the clear, and that the proposed extension along Walnut street to the river Delaware ought not to be of less dimensions.

To make a sewer in the place of the defective part of the Dock street sewer, or along side of it, that shall carry off the same quantity of water as the proposed Walnut street sewer, it must be of much larger diameter in the clear, owing to the resistance occasioned by its angular shape, and the large flow of water meeting it from the south-western part of the City at the Tobacco warehouse, the whole having to pass a further distance of 435 feet before it discharges into the river Delaware.

The area of a section of the proposed Walnut street sewer is = 54.2 square feet, the area of a section of the smallest part of the sewer east of the Tobacco warehouse is = 75 square feet, and the area of a section of a sewer in Dock street, from Walnut street to the Tobacco warehouse, of sufficient capacity to carry off the drainage, ought in my opinion to be = 67.5 square feet, or 9.5 feet diameter in the clear.

The estimate furnished by me a few weeks since for a sewer in Dock street, was for one of 8 ft. 6 in. diameter in the clear, amounting to $14,000, consequently to make one of 9.5 feet diameter upon the same plan, and in the same place, would be at a proportionate additional expense of perhaps $1500, making the amount of the whole cost to be fifteen thousand and five hundred dollars.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.

SAMUEL HAINS, City Surveyor.

April 6th, 1848.

An Ordinance

To authorize the construction of a Culvert in Dock Street.

SECT. 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Citizens of Philadelphia, in Select and Common Councils assembled, That the Committee on Public Highways cause to be constructed by contract or otherwise, a culvert in Dock street, to commence at the termination of the present sewer in Walnut street at Dock street, and to extend along Dock street to the Tobacco warehouse, with suitable openings in the same, and to be of a diameter not exceeding nine feet five inches in the clear.

APPENDIX No. XXXVIII.

To the Select and Common Councils ;

The undersigned, a minority of the Committee on Public Highways, respectfully ask leave to Report :

That they have been unable to subscribe to the resolution passed in Committee, and reported to Councils, viz., " That in the opinion of the Committee it is expedient to remedy the defects of so much of the Dock street culvert as is defective, by the construction of a new one along side, or in place of the one now existing, of sufficient capacity to carry off the drainage," and for the following reasons, to wit :

1. Because it has not been shown satisfactorily, that the construction of a new culvert along side, or in place of the one now existing in Dock street, will remedy the evils complained of, in the various petitions presented to Councils, and referred to the Committee on the subject.

2. Because they are of opinion that the most effectual means of accomplishing the objects prayed for, will be to continue the present Walnut street culvert down Walnut to the river Delaware ; the cost of which according to an estimate made by the City Surveyor, would be probably seven thousand five hundred dollars ; being less than one half the estimated cost of the proposed reconstruction of the Dock street sewer ; and having the advantage of a straight line for its construction, instead of one of seven angles ; and without interfering with the public or private property.

They offer the following resolution. Resolved, That it is expedient for the Committee on Public Highways to designate Walnut street from Dock street to the river Delaware, as the most eligible street for the continuation of the present Walnut street culvert.

Respectfully submitted,

SAUN. LEWIS,
JESSE GODLEY.

That after duly considering the matter, they deem it inexpedient to grant permission to any Fire Company to erect an alarm bell, to be rung in time of fire, such permission being inconsistent with the 3d section of the Act of Assembly, for the better regulation of the Fire Department, passed the 7th day of March, 1848.

That ample provision has been made to remedy the complaint of your memorialists in relation to firing of cannon, in an Ordinance passed on the 18th of January, 1790, entitled "An Ordinance for the suppression of nuisances, and enforcing of useful regulations within the City of Philadelphia," wherein it is enacted "That no person or persons whatever, shall fire or discharge any cannon or other pieces of artillery, or ordnance within the built parts of the city, without the permission of the Mayor for the time being, being first had and obtained in writing under his hand, under a penalty of five dollars for every cannon so fired." As regards that portion of said memorial relating to the stand for vehicles kept for hire in the vicinity of said church, your Committee further beg leave to state, that the City Commissioners possess authority in an Ordinance passed on the 22d May, 1797, to change and fix the stands for such vehicles, and are disposed as far as may be, to accommodate the community in such matters.

That having given due attention thereto, and in connection therewith to the ordinance proposed to be amended, and also to a supplement passed on the 12th day of June, 1834—it appears to them,—were unmuzzled dogs prevented roaming at large,—that sufficient provision has been made by law to prevent the calamitous effects attributed to the bite of dogs; especially in a clause which enacts "That every dog going at large within the City of Philadelphia, shall have securely put on, a good, strong, substantial, and safe wire basket muzzle, inclosing the whole of the mouth of said dog." with a resolution of the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, presenting to the Corporation of the City of Philadelphia, the principal collection of geological specimens belonging to the State—and also the communications from “the Franklin Institute of the State of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the mechanic arts,” and from “the Society for the development of the mineral resources of the United States,” respectively tendering their rooms as a place of deposit for the geological collection presented to the City by the State :

Beg leave to report, that they have given this subject their attention, and are of opinion that the collection should be deposited in the rooms of the Franklin Institute, and placed under the charge of the Society. This Institution is well established, with a great number of members, many of them men of industry and attainments, and devoted to the objects of the association ; besides which the situation is central, and the rooms proposed are suitable, and now ready for the reception of the collection, where it will be at all times open to the public.

Your Committee submit the following resolution, and recommend its adoption, to wit :

Resolved, That the Committee on Legacies and Trusts, be authorized and instructed to deposit the geological and mineralogical specimens, presented to the City by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, in the rooms of the Franklin Institute of the State of Pennsylvania ; provided the said institution shall give the requisite obligation and bonds for the proper arrangement and public exhibition thereof, and the return of them whenever required by the City of Philadelphia.

APPENDIX No. XLV.

To the Select and Common Councils :

The Committee on Police respectfully Report,

That under the sanction of an Ordinance passed on the 13th of April last, appropriating thirteen thousand dollars for procuring police station-houses in districts No. 1, south-east ; and No. 3, south-west ; they have purchased on account of the city, an eligibly situated property on the south-east corner of Schuylkill Eighth and Brighton street, consisting of two houses, and the lot of ground whereon the same are erected, containing thirty-eight feet in front on said Eighth street, by eighty feet in length or depth on Brighton street, for the sum of eight thousand dollars. The largest building on the premises from its size and arrangement, has readily been converted into a convenient station-house, and when the appropriate lockup rooms are added, for which purpose there is sufficient space on the lot,—this establishment will be equal to the utmost wishes of your Committee. The additional cost, for lockup rooms (4), the erection of a steeple, removing and rehangng the fire alarm bell, fixtures, &c., will be about one thousand dollars.

For the use of the night and day police in the south-east district, No. 1, your committee have purchased the houses and lot of ground No. 96 Union street, between Delaware Third and Fourth street, for the sum of three thousand and five hundred dollars. This lot is twenty feet in front by eighty feet in length or depth. The house on Union street is a substantial two storied tenement, the lower room of which is well adapted to the use of the day police ;—but the large building in the rear which the Committee hoped would with necessary alterations, answer for the night police, has been found so essentially defective in its structure and stability throughout, that it will be necessary to build a new house in its place. The estimated expense of this it is believed will not exceed three thousand dollars, this amount including also, the building of lockup rooms, a steeple, and removing and rehangng the fire alarm bell, fixtures, &c.

Hence it will be perceived, as only five hundred dollars of the original appropriation will remain, that a further sum has become indispensable to enable your committee to complete their labors ; but this can be effected, and the money procured without further demands on the treasury outside of appropriations already made to your committee, from the balance which will accrue by the recent reduction in the price of gas used in the public lamps; and your Committee therefore the more cheerfully submit the annexed resolution.

APPENDIX No. LIV.

To the Select and Common Councils:

The Committee on Police, to whom was referred the consideration of the memorial of a number of citizens, resident in the south-west district of the city; asking "for the appointment of an officer, to be stationed at the Western Hose Company's house on Schuylkill Third below Pine street; and, that the same be appointed a regular station for giving alarm in case of fire, by striking the bell of said Company." And a communication from the "Board of Engineers, M. F. D. to the same purport," respectfully submit—

That having duly considered the propositions of your memorialists, and the existing laws in relation to this subject, they are of opinion that compliance in the premises on the part of Councils would be incompatible, not only with the third section of the Act of Assembly, approved on the 7th of March last, but also the third section of an Ordinance passed by Councils on the 4th day January, 1844, and that, therefore, Councils cannot, consistently with the laws referred to, use, or grant to any person or persons whatever, the use of any fire alarm bell that is not their own property, and under their absolute control.

The laws referred to are as follows :

Ordinance, January 4th, 1844.

Pamphlet, 1847—p. 865.

“SECT. 3. And be it, &c., That no fire company shall hereafter erect or use any stationary alarm bell.”

Act of Assembly, March 7th, 1848.

“SECT. 3. No fire company now founded or hereafter to be founded, within the city or incorporated districts, shall erect or use any stationary alarm bell; the said city and incorporated districts shall each procure and have at least one large bell, to be rung in time of fire, by a person duly appointed by the respective corporations of said city and districts.”

In connection, however, with this subject, it is deemed proper to state, that the Committee on Police having purchased a large building on the corner of Schuylkill Eighth and Brighton street, for the use of the night and day Police of the south-west division of the city, and intending thereupon to elevate sixty feet in height, the large bell now in use at the Broad street station,—about to be vacated,—there is reason to believe that this arrangement will be satisfactory to the residents in said district.

APPENDIX No. LV.

To the Select and Common Councils:

The Committee on Legacies and Trusts, Report :

That on the 13th and 14th of last month they made the customary annual visit to the Fire Companies that have accepted the provisions of the Ordinance for the better regulation of the Fire Department, passed on the 4th of January, 1844, and its several supplements.

The Committee have pleasure in saying that they found the Engine and Hose Carriages in excellent order, and worthy of commendation for their beauty and completeness, and also that the hose of the several companies, amounting in all to about 14,485 feet, was in good serviceable condition.

There are this year seven accepting Engine Companies, and eleven Hose Companies, having in all about 600 active members.

The Columbia Engine Company is at present without a permanent location, a suit at law involving the title to the property lately occupied by them, having been determined against the Company. The Engine is now run from the Diligent Engine House, in conjunction with that Company, and the hose and carriage is at the Neptune Hose house, and taken into service from there. The Company are negotiating for a lot and house in their old neighbourhood, and expect in a few weeks to have a permanent location for their apparatus.

Two additional Companies—the Good Will Engine and the Neptune Hose Company, have this year signified their desire to submit themselves to the conditions of the Ordinances, and Engineers have been appointed to represent them in the Board.

The Neptune has a high reputation as a Fire Company, and may be welcomed as a valuable acquisition to our present force. The Good Will, although a most active and efficient company, has unhappily on several occasions been engaged in those disturbances which have brought so much discredit upon the Fire Department—this was caused by circumstances not within the control of many of the members. On the 25th of January last, they declared their apparatus out of service for ninety days, and at the expiration of that time, being of opinion that the cause which induced the measure was not entirely removed, they again resolved to keep their apparatus out of service for the further term of ninety days, which will expire on the 25th of this month, when they expect to resume their duties as firemen, and be able to exert their laudable efforts in extinguishing fires, without subjecting themselves to discredit and their fellow citizens to discomfort.

The Fire Companies that have conformed to the views of the public, as expressed in the Ordinances of the City, almost without exception, deserve praise for their strict compliance with the regulations, whilst in relation to the other Companies a marked improvement has taken place in their conduct since the passage of the law by our State Legislature, on the 7th of March last, for the better regulation of the Fire Department in the City, and Incorporated Districts of the County of Philadelphia—the benefits of this law have been apparent to all, and perhaps with some supplementary legislation the Fire Department may regain its former distinguished reputation.

The reports of the several companies made to the committee, show the localities and property belonging to each Company, together with the number of active, honorary, and contributing members, and also the number of times they were called into service. Some of the Companies, but the Phoenix Hose Company especially, have reported the number of fires which occurred in the past year, the character of the property destroyed, and the probable cause of the fire; and it is hoped that in the ensuing year the reports of all the Companies, will in this respect follow more closely the requisitions of the law.

The accepting Companies have all received from the Board of Engineers of the middle Fire District, their Certificates of conformity to the Ordinances.

The Committee therefore recommend the adoption of the resolution annexed to this report.

The Committee also visited the Wills Hospital, which every where exhibits the evidence of the excellent management which is expected from its able managers.

LETTERS.

TO CHARLES A. POULSON,

Chairman of the Joint Committee of Select and Common Councils.

I received a few days since, thy kind and respectful letter of the 7th instant, accompanied by the minutes of the Committee of 1793 which the Councils of Philadelphia have kindly presented to me. This mark of consideration and kindness by the authorities of my native city has been truly acceptable—and I request Thee will be kind enough to express to them my grateful sense of their kind remembrance of thy friend,

THOMAS WISTAR.

Philadelphia, 7th month 14th, 1848.

Philada., July 8th, 1848.

DEAR SIR—Be pleased to accept my thanks, and present them also to the Joint Special Committee of Select and Common Councils of this city for the copy of the original minutes of the Committee appointed by the citizens in 1793 to attend to, and alleviate the sufferings caused by the calamitous pestilence of that year, received yesterday, with your kind note of that date.

The perusal of this simple narrative was immediately begun and the book was not laid down—so affecting and interesting are its contents—until it was entirely read through. Though young when this affliction fell upon us, I was old enough to be very sensible of its awfulness, and of the distress and alarm it produced. Of the merits and perils of the members of the Committee, it was my misfortune to be feelingly admonished, for the first of them who was struck down was my father, the head of a large family, himself in the prime of life, and with a reasonable prospect of many years of activity before him. The others, I followed through life with a deep veneration, till it has all been centered in the one only living representative of the body, Thomas Wistar, whose whole career has been distinguished by his active benevolence.

Yet, with all the means I have had of personal knowledge, aided by some reading on the subject, I do confess that this unadorned journal now for the first time seen, impresses me most powerfully—so powerfully indeed, as almost to make me reproach myself with ignorance of the true grandeur of this part of the annals of Philadelphia, and of the surpassing work of those of our fellow citizens who volunteered at every hazard, in the cause of humanity, and persevered in protecting the afflicted poor till the pestilence was staid. Their pure and heroic and devoted conduct, does honor to our city, does honor to their nature, and could not but be an acceptable service in the sight of Heaven.

Allow me to add that I feel thankful to the Councils for restoring this fair monument, and to Committee of Councils, for the excellent manner in which they have done the work.

Very truly and respectfully

Dear Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

JOHN SERGEANT.

CHAS. A. POULSON, Chairman.

Philadelphia, July 12th, 1848.

DEAR SIR—I have received your note of the 10th inst., with a copy of the Minutes of the Committee of 1793.

Be pleased to present to the Joint Special Committee of the Select and Common Councils, of the city of Philadelphia, of which you are Chairman, my sincere thanks for this beautiful present; valuable in itself, but to me, connected by the ties of nature and gratitude with one of the members of the Committee of 1793, especially valuable as an evidence of the estimation placed upon the services of those, who, during that period of calamity, attained the office of alleviating the suffering of the sick and of providing for the widow and fatherless in their affliction.

Very respectfully,

Yours, &c.,

GEO. SHARSWOOD.

CHARLES A. POULSON, Esq.,

Chairman of the Joint Special Committee of Councils.

Philadelphia, July 18th, 1848.

MR. CHAS. A. POULSON :—

SIR—It affords me great pleasure to receive at your hands, after a lapse of more than fifty years, the testimonial of respect to those noble spirits who so heroically and benevolently struggled through the sad perils of '93.

But two of a once numerous family of my venerated parent,* now remains, Mrs. Davenport and myself. She unites with me, in grateful thanks for this highly acceptable gift, and shall always view it as an evidence of respect towards our departed Father.

Respectfully,

Yours,

MARY ELLET.

DEAR SIR—Your favor of the 11th is received, with a copy of the "Minutes of the proceedings of the Committee of 1793," for which I beg you to accept my thanks.

Councils have, I think, done well in preserving this memorial of the transactions of that day, as few cases can anywhere be found of a more self-sacrificing spirit than was then exhibited, and it is well that the present generation should see that the good deeds of their predecessors are not entirely forgotten.

I remain Dear Sir,

With great respect,

Yours very truly,

HENRY C. CAREY.

July 11th, 1848.

TO CHARLES A. POULSON, Esq.,

DEAR SIR—please to accept my thanks for your kind and polite attention, in sending me a copy of the proceedings of the Committee during the prevailing sickness of 1793. Councils have done an act of justice to the memory of the brave and worthy members of that benevolent association, by printing and thus perpetuating the history of that eventful period.

I, Sir, who was an eye-witness, up to the 10th of September, of its desolating effects, even when only 45 died daily in a population of about twenty-five thousand in the city and suburbs, and saw the panic that drove into the country, one-third of its inhabitants, I can appreciate the courage and philanthropy, and disinterestedness, of those rich men, who preferred the exercise of humanity, to their own security.

The very friendly language of your note, is cordially reciprocated, and with renewed thanks,

I remain, most respectfully, Dear Sir,
Your obedient servant,
SAML. BRECK.

85 South Fourth street,
11th July, 1848.

DEAR SIR—I am much obliged to you for your note of yesterday, and the volume which the Councils have published. The men who in the past visitation of this city by the Yellow-fever, subdued all personal apprehension of the disease, and devoted themselves so faithfully and courageously to the duties of humanity, should never be forgotten. Indeed they cannot be. The book is a special tribute to Mr. Girard, and should be conspicuously placed in his Orphan College, and made known to his pupils, both as an example, and a record of more than one of his characteristic virtues. The daily entry at the head of the minutes for two months—"Stephen Girard and Peter Helm at the Hospital," is of itself a biography.

Very respectfully, yours,
HORACE BINNEY.

CHAS. A. POULSON, Esq., 172 S. Front Street.

Lancaster, August, 25th, 1848.

CHAS. A. POULSON:—

DEAR SIR—On behalf of a Joint Committee of Select and Common Councils, of the city of Lancaster, appointed for that purpose, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the minutes of the proceedings of the Committee appointed on the 14th of September, 1793, by the citizens of Philadelphia, the Northern Liberties, and the District of Southwark, to attend to and alleviate the sufferings of the afflicted with the malignant fever prevalent in the city and its vicinity.

The book is acceptable indeed, and it is highly gratifying to us to find throughout its pages numerous instances of liberality on the part of citizens of Lancaster county, directed towards the good work of alleviation in that season of calamitous suffering, of which these "minutes" furnish the interesting history.

Please accept the cordial thanks of the Councils of Lancaster, for this gift.

With great respect, yours, &c.,
NEWTON LIGHTIN, Chairman.

REPORT—

That in their opinion, the operation and influence of the recent ordinance, establishing a night and day police has not been sufficiently tested to warrant the modification proposed by your memorialists; but were it otherwise, continuous and successive watchfulness of the city attained by the immediate alternation of the night and day police, is a principal object designed to be maintained by this law; and your committee are aware of no sufficient reason why so important a feature in its provisions should be weakened. Your committee therefore deem the proposed alteration inexpedient, and further beg leave to submit the resolution annexed.

APPENDIX No. LXV.

The Joint Special Committee heretofore appointed to examine the books and accounts of the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works, and to take into consideration "the several memorials presented to Councils, praying for a reduction of the price of gas," respectfully

REPORT—

That they have given the subjects referred to them a careful examination, and now proceed to exhibit to Councils the results of that examination.

The Committee did not deem it necessary, nor think that Councils expected them to enter into a full and minute examination of all the accounts kept by the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works. But they were of opinion inasmuch as the Committee was raised at the request of, or in accordance with the wishes of the Board of the Trustees, that these gentlemen should be requested to call the attention of the Committee to such matters of inquiry and investigation as the Board considered of importance, under the existing state of public opinion and feeling.

In pursuance of this invitation from the Committee a communication was received from the Board, a copy of which is hereto annexed, marked "A." The Committee carefully examined also the several memorials referred to them—to ascertain if they suggested any other points of inquiry—but the Committee came to the conclusion that no such additional points were thus suggested.

Before proceeding to report on the matters thus examined by the Committee, it will be proper to recall to Councils, that prior to receiving the Gas Works from the former stockholders, in the year 1841, a Committee of Councils thoroughly investigated the accounts of the Trustees, up to that period—and the conclusions of that Committee besides being a matter passed upon and adjusted, present the advantage of a settlement made with parties having at the time an adversary interest to that of the Trustees.

The range of inquiry in the opinion of the Committee, for those who merely desire to satisfy their own minds, as to the integrity and skill with which the works have been managed, is thus much restricted in point of time, even had the examination been a more general one than the Committee determined to make.

The first and third points of inquiry suggested by the Board of Trustees were—

"First, Whether the whole of the sum of One Hundred and Twenty-five Thousand Dollars of the loan authorized by Councils, under the Ordinance of June 17th, 1841, has been disposed of agreeably to law: first, by the payment to the stockholders of $48,000, and second, by the expenditure of the remaining $77,000, in the enlargement of the works and the extension of the distribution of Gas?"

"Third, Whether after the settlement with the Stockholders, and until the passage of the Ordinance of June 26th, 1844, the Trustees were not required to set apart, in addition to the sums of two and three per cent. respectively, all the profits of the works, for the enlargement of the Sinking Fund, and whether a compliance with that requisition did not make it necessary for them either to sell the $77,000 remaining of the Loan of 1841, after the settlement with the stockholders, or to take the certificates thereof, as part of their investments for the Sinking Fund."

The Committee have no doubt from an examination of the books of the Trustees that the whole of the 4th Gas Loan amounting to $125,000, was disposed of by the payment of $48,000 to the former stockholders, as directed by the Ordinance of the 1st July, 1841, and by the purchase of the remaining $77,000 for the account of the Sinking Fund of the works, and the Committee annex hereto, on paper marked B, copies of the minutes of the Trustees and their Journal book, entries relating to the same; and in the same manner the Committee are satisfied that previously to the purchase of the $77,000 of the loan in question, for the account of the Sinking Fund, the Trustees had expended the sum of $77,000 out of the profits of the works (which accrued after the city had acquired the right to them) in the extension of those works by laying new pipes, &c.

If those profits so used belonged to the Sinking Fund no one can dispute the propriety of replacing them by crediting the Sinking Fund with an equivalent amount of Gas Loans, authorized to be applied to the extension of the works, and remaining unsold.

But the question now recurs whether those profits did belong to the Sinking Fund. This is to be answered by a reference to the Ordinance of the 17th of June, 1841, which authorized the 4th Loan, and required the Trustees "to set apart all the clear nett profits after paying the interest on the several loans, to constitute a Sinking Fund," and results in a mere point of law.

The Committee submitted this matter to the City Solicitor, and his answer marked C, will be found among the papers annexed to this report, affirming the construction put upon the Ordinance by the Trustees.

The Second point of inquiry proposed to the Committee was, "Whether the practice of the Trustees in placing two per cent. per annum on the amount of the six per cent. Gas debt, ($475,000) and three per cent. on the amount of five per cent. Gas debt, ($125,000) is not in accordance with the Ordinances directing the appropriations to the Sinking Fund."

The Committee have no doubt that the practice of the Trustees here referred to is strictly in conformity with the requisitions of the Ordinances.

The Fourth point of inquiry was "Whether the account of the Sinking Fund, and its increase by the annual appropriations, profits and interest, are not regularly recorded in the books of the Trustees, and the amount thereof at the end of every year reported to Councils, in the statements made by Trustees."

The Committee are satisfied that this is the case.

The Fifth point of inquiry was, "Whether since the works passed into the hands of the City, in 1841, the Ordinances directing the management thereof, and the disposition of the profits thereof, have not been faithfully complied with, and also whether there was a greater or less sum than $15,943,04 applicable on the first of January, 1848, as the basis of a reduction in the price of Gas."

The Committee believe that the Trustees have faithfully complied with the Ordinances in this respect, and that no greater sum than $15,943,04 was applicable on the first of January, 1848, as the basis of a reduction in the price of Gas.

The Sixth point of inquiry was, "Whether the accounts of the Trustees are not regularly kept, the moneys received for the various products of the works faithfully accounted for, the expenditures statedly and carefully audited and examined, and such personal supervision given to the works by the Trustees, as ensures economical and profitable results."

This the Committee are not willing to enter upon, further than they have already done with reference to the other points, as the inquiry is so general in its terms as to require a thorough and detailed examination of the books and papers of the Trustees, and considerable expense. It must be added that the Committee have no reason to doubt that the inquiry if entered upon would have resulted in a favorable conclusion. The Committee had under their consideration various matters connected with the proper policy of the management of the works, but the Ordinance passed by Councils (since the appointment of the Committee) on the subject of the Gas Works, and the recent reduction by the Trustees, in the price of Gas, with the expectation of further reductions, have rendered it unnecessary in the opinion of the Committee, to make any suggestions to Councils upon these points.

The Committee add for the information of Councils, that their inquiry has led them to the conclusion that the Philadelphia Gas Works not only produce Gas of the best quality, but that the present price of it, which with the discount off, is two dollars and thirteen and three-fourths cents (\$2 13 $\frac{3}{4}$), a thousand feet, is cheaper than that of any in the United States, thus—

In Boston, the price is	.	.	$3 50	a thousand feet.
In New York, the lowest price is	4 00	"	"
One Company charges	7 00	"	"
In Pittsburg, the price is	2 40	"	"
In Baltimore, the price is	3 80	"	"
In Louisville, the price is	3 00	"	"
In Cincinnati, the price is	3 00	"	"
In New Orleans, the price is	5 00	"	"

In conclusion, the Committee are of opinion that the Councils, and through them our fellow-citizens, should be kept more fully informed than they have heretofore been of the management of the Gas Works, and they recommend the passage of the annexed Resolutions.

LETTER OF MR. FRALEY.

OFFICE OF THE PHILA. GAS WORKS,
March 27th, 1848.

BENJAMIN GERHARD, Esq.,

Chairman of the Joint Special Committee of Councils.

DEAR SIR—In reply to the resolution adopted by the Special Committee of Councils of which you are Chairman, I have under the direction of the Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas Works, to request the examination of the following matters which they think are now the subjects of misapprehension.

FIRST. Whether the whole of the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars of the Loan authorized by Councils, under the Ordinance of June 17th, 1841, has been disposed of agreeably to law: first, by the payment to the Stockholders of $48,000, and second, by the expenditure of the remaining $77,000, in the enlargement of the Works, and the extension of the distribution of Gas.

SECOND. Whether the practice of the Trustees in placing two per cent per annum on the amount of the six per cent Gas debt ($475,000,) and three per cent on the amount of the five per cent Gas debt, ($125,000,) is not in accordance with the ordinances directing the appropriations to the Sinking Fund.

THIRD. Whether after the settlement with the Stockholders, and until the passage of the Ordinance of June 20th, 1844, the Trustees were not required to set apart in addition to the above sums of two and three per cent respectively, all profits of the Works for the enlargement of the Sinking Fund, and whether a compliance with that requisition, did not make it necessary for them either to sell the $77,000 remaining of the Loan of 1841, after the settlement with the Stockholders, or take the certificates thereof as part of their investments for the Sinking Fund.

FOURTH. Whether the account of the Sinking Fund and its increase by the annual appropriations, profits, and interest, are not regularly recorded in the books of the Trustees, and the amount thereof at the end of every year, reported to Councils, in the statements made by the Trustees.

FIFTH. Whether since the Works passed into the hands of the City in 1841, the ordinances directing the management thereof, and the disposition of the profits thereof, have not been faithfully complied with, and also whether there was a greater or less sum than $15,943 04, applicable on the 1st of January, 1848, as the basis of a reduction in the price of Gas.

SIXTH. Whether the accounts of the Trustees are not regularly kept, the monies received for the various products of the Works, faithfully accounted for, the expenditures statedly and carefully audited and examined, and such personal supervision given to the Works by the Trustees, as ensures economical and profitable results.

I have further to state that a reply is in preparation for the queries attached to the second resolution of your Committee, which will be transmitted to you without delay. And I am charged by the Board to request, that your Committee will not hesitate to make such thorough and searching examinations of the accounts and management of the Trustees, as will satisfy the Councils and their fellow citizens generally, of the faithful administration of the Trust.

I have the honor to be

Very respectfully,

Yours, &c.,

F. FRALEY, President.

LETTER OF EDWARD OLMSTED.

Philadelphia, 25th April, 1848.

To the Joint Special Committee of Councils on the Gas Works.

GENTLEMEN—I have received a copy of a resolution adopted by you on the 5th April, by which “the question of the balance of the 4th loan, viz., seventy-seven thousand dollars, and the legality of the disposition of the same by the Trustees of the Gas works” is referred to me: as is also the communication made to Councils by Dr. Drake: and I am requested by the resolution “to give Dr. Drake an opportunity of explaining his views.” Although the words of the resolution seem to require of me a more extended examination, yet I am instructed that I am expected simply to examine into, and give my opinion upon the legality of the investment of the sum of seventy-seven thousand dollars, part of the loan of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars authorized by Councils, by Ordinance of June 17, 1841.

At my request, Dr. Drake explained to me his views, and we have had several conversations upon the subject referred to me.

In relation to the investment referred to, I have no doubt of its legality: and its history will fully justify this conclusion.

An Ordinance of June 17, 1841, directed the Trustees of the Gas works to set apart all the nett profits of the Gas works, after paying the interest on loans, to constitute a sinking fund for the re-payment of all loans made for the benefit of the Gas works: and to invest the same in Gas or City loans. The nett profits of the works mean, the sums received from the sale of gas, &c., after deducting the cost of manufacture, salaries, &c. The extension of the works being provided for by loans, the cost thereof, was not to be deducted out of the receipts from the sale of gas, before appropriating the profits to the sinking fund.

The Ordinance before referred to, authorized the Mayor to borrow, at the request of the Trustees of the Gas works, such sums of money, not exceeding one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, as they might require for the purpose of extending the works. On the 1st July, 1841, an Ordinance was passed directing that forty-eight thousand dollars of the sum authorized to be borrowed by the Ordinance of June, 1841, should be distributed among the Stockholders of the Gas works: thus reducing the sum at the disposal of the Trustees to seventy-seven thousand dollars.

The Trustees in lieu of raising this sum by the sale of the loan in the market, used, for one of the purposes for which the loan was authorized, namely, the laying down pipes for the distribution of gas, the uninvested nett profits which were due to the sinking fund. The works, therefore, were indebted to the sinking fund for the sums so employed: and the Trustees from time to time, transferred to the sinking fund, the sum of seventy-seven thousand dollars, the unexpended portion of the loan authorized by Ordinance of June, 1841, in payment of the like amount due the sinking fund. It appears to me that the Trustees were authorized so to invest.

Yours, respectfully,

Mr. TRUCKS offered the following:

Resolved, That the Chairman be authorized to obtain a reply in writing from the Trustees of the Gas works, to the following queries, the answers to the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th questions, to embrace the years 1847, 1846, and 1845.

1st. An estimate of the cost of a Retort house of the capacity of the present one, or if the Trustees design to build one of a larger capacity, to give the dimensions and the estimated cost of the building.

2d. An estimate of the cost of each section of Retorts intended for the new Retort house, stating the number of fires to each section, and the number of Retorts to each fire.

3d. The cost of the apparatus and fixtures for cleansing and purifying the Gas, and if such apparatus and fixtures can be provided for each section of Retorts for the gradual enlargement of the manufacturing department as the increased demand may require, without any serious disadvantage or loss in the construction.

4th. The cost of iron Retorts used in manufacturing Gas.

5th. The value of the Retorts when unfit for service.

6th. The average duration of the Retorts.

7th. The cost of renewing the Retorts for each fire, including all expenses for setting them up.

8th. The quantity of Gas produced by each Retort while fit for service, provided it shall have been in constant use.

9th. The number of men required to attend each section of Retorts, consisting of ten fires and three Retorts to each fire, the wages paid them, and the wear and tear of tools and machinery used in charging the Retorts and removing the coke.

OFFICE OF THE PHILA. GAS WORKS, March 29th, 1848.

To the Joint Special Committee of Councils.

GENTLEMEN—The following statement is presented in reply to the queries propounded to the Trustees of the Gas works by the Joint Committee of Councils. The several replies might have been limited to a brief statement of figures representing the aggregate cost of the buildings and apparatus designated in the queries, and the mean results of the annual operations. Such a statement, however, would convey but little information of any value, and as the Committee expressed a desire to obtain full and unreserved replies, it is deemed right to communicate not only the several numerical values, but also the data from which some of them are derived, and the practical results to which they lead.

The replies are thus made to embrace all the practical information that the queries are designed to elicit.

The cost of the parts of the existing works corresponding with those it is proposed to construct has been,—

Say—Retort house with retort beds,	$74,000 00
Purifiers, Condensers, and Refrigerators,	38,700 00
Governor Station, Meters, and connexions,	6,400 00
	<hr/>
	$119,100 00

The new Retort house is designed to be, when completed, of the same length as the old one, and a few feet wider.

The condensers will be of the same pattern as those last constructed; the refrigerators will be similar in dimensions to those in use, but of different construction and arrangement; and the purifiers will be considerably enlarged in dimension.

It is proposed to construct the new works in sections, divided in such manner as not to increase very materially the ultimate cost, nor destroy the symmetry of the whole when completed. To effect this the first section of the Retort house must be rather more than half the length of the entire building, to include the chimney, with a bench and main flue for twenty beds of retorts. The hydraulic main, dip pipes, &c., must be provided for 30 retorts, and the beds be filled in as occasion may require.

The purifying apparatus, with condensers and refrigerating washers and station meter, must be completed for one section of 30 retorts, the governor provided for passing the gas of the whole one hundred and twenty retorts, and the kiln for manufacturing lime must be replaced by one of much larger capacity. To restore the yard room for the storage of pipes, rosin, and other materials, which will be occupied by the new retort house, it will probably become necessary to extend part of the wharf on the Schuylkill to the limits prescribed by the Port Wardens. The present temporary arrangement of the middle coal stores will also be destroyed by the new building, rendering it necessary to complete the arched covering, in accordance with the original plan. From this general recital of the nature and extent of the proposed improvements, the Committee will be enabled to arrive at a judgment of the correctness of the estimates of their cost, detailed in the order in which the several queries are propounded.

FIRST. The Retort house will be about one hundred and ten feet long, by fifty-two feet wide, the interior built upon brick arches supported by cast iron girders, so as to form coal stoves beneath. The roof will be of wrought iron, covered with slate, the whole to be completely fire proof. The chimney will be one hundred feet in height, and twelve feet square at the base, the foundation will be carried down to rock, and the coal stores will probably be also partly excavated in rock. The cost of this building is estimated to be twenty-six thousand dollars. That of the retort bench and main flue, three thousand dollars.

SECOND. A section of retorts comprising ten beds of three retorts, with hydraulic main, standing, dip, and bridge pipes, is estimated to cost forty-five hundred dollars. It is proposed to construct some beds upon different plans recently adopted in England, with retorts of various forms and arrangement; having from one to six retorts to each fire. The inventors of these claim to have effected great improvement in economy and durability ; the only sure test of which is to be found in practical trial. These experiments will make some addition to the cost of the work.

THIRD. The apparatus and fixtures for cleansing and purifying the Gas will be constructed into sections, the cost of the first of which may be estimated to be eight thousand five hundred dollars. The necessary appendages to the new works not embraced in the queries, are the station meter and governor, the completion of the middle coal stores and the enlarged lime kiln. The cost of these will be about five thousand dollars.

RECAPITULATION.

Retort house and chimney, - - -	$26,000 00
Bench and main flue, - - - -	3,000 00
Retort beds, hydraulic main, &c., - -	4,500 00.
Purifiers, condensers, &c., - - -	8,500 00
Meter, governor, coal stores, &c., - -	5,000 00
<hr/>
Total,	$47,000 00
Leaving for contingencies, wharfing, &c.,	3,000 00
<hr/>
	$50,000 00

These estimates are based on the supposition that sufficient time is allowed for the proper execution of the work. Should the requisite preparations be delayed much beyond the present time, their completion in season for use this year will become a matter of doubt, and if accomplished at all, can be effected only at increased expense.

This remark is not made with any design to hasten improperly the action of the Committee, but as the decision of the question now rests entirely with Councils, and consequently the reponsibility for the results is also theirs, it is right that they should be put in full possession of all the circumstances bearing upon the question.

FOURTH. The cost of iron retorts used in manufacturing Gas, varies from forty-five to sixty dollars ; the difference of cost depending on the quality and weight of metal of which they are made : during the three years named, those used at these works have been of medium weight, and of the best quality of metal ; their cost has averaged about fifty-five dollars.

FIFTH. The value of retorts when unfit for service, is from one dollar and a half to four dollars, according as they are more or less completely destroyed by use.

SIXTH. The average duration of Retorts is derived from numbers which take so wide a range, that the mere statement of its numerical representative affords but little information of practical value. The range of duration is from six weeks to twenty months. Numerous examples of both extremes can be adduced. In the years 1845-6 and 7, the range has been from four and a half months to thirteen months. The average is to be estimated by several methods, all of which have important practical bearing on the question of economy in working. By assuming an average derived from only one basis, and neglecting the others, errors in practice of considerable magnitude have been introduced.

In one very extensive establishment, the retorts are renewed regularly every six months, in others once a year is the regular time, while some continue them in operation as long as they will hold together. The following statement exhibits the average duration of retorts in the last three years, as derived in the first place from a comparison of the whole numbers fired, with the mean number in use; secondly, from comparison of the number fired with maximum number in use; and lastly from the actual duration of each bed.

AVERAGE.		1845.	1846.	1847.
From Mean	No.	6½ mos.	8 mos.	8 mos.
"	Maximum, "	9 "	9¾ "	12 "
"	Actual duration,	7¼ "	9½ "	8¾ "

SEVENTH. The cost of renewing the retorts for each fire, including all expenses for setting them up, in the three years has been about three hundred dollars.

EIGHTH. The quantity of Gas produced by each retort while fit for service is subject to considerable variation, arising not only from the unequal duration of the retorts, but also from the different condition of the works in respect to sufficiency of store room and of spare retorts. The range in the three years has been from 450,000 cubic feet to 1,320,000.

The averages are

For 1845,	780,000 cubic feet each retort.
" 1846,	960,000 " " " "
" 1847,	930,000 " " " "

The above is the average total production.

The daily yield for each retort in action, possesses equal, if not greater importance, from its influence on the maximum capacity of the works. While it depends on the same causes as the total product, its numerical value is generally the converse of that quantity, the daily product diminishing, as the total yield increases. The average daily product in the three years has been,

For 1845,	3,654 cubic feet per retort.
“ 1846,	3,401 “ “ “ “
“ 1847,	3,698 “ “ “ “

A very instructive view of this subject is afforded by a comparison of the monthly averages for the years 1846 and 1847. In the former year there was abundance of store room and spare retorts, the daily average of the summer months was kept low by continuing the retorts long in use, producing a saving by their increased duration, and raising the daily average of the succeeding winter months, from the greater proportion of new retorts then in action. In 1847 the small margin of spare retorts rendered it necessary to throw out the old beds in the spring months, so as to insure their reconstruction during the summer. Many of the new beds were thus brought into use early in the season, whereby the daily average was considerably augmented in summer, and as a necessary consequence kept down in the winter. The accompanying table exhibits these facts.

	1846.	1847.		1846.	1847.
January,	3,709.	4,084.	July,	2,474.	3,589.
February,	3,528.	3,867.	August,	3,264.	3,509.
March,	3,396.	3,322.	September,	3,416.	9,906.
April,	3,036.	3,360.	October,	4,193.	3,955.
May,	2,742.	3,528.	November,	4,157.	3,940.
June,	2,607.	3,646.	December,	4,297.	3,552.

NINTH. The number of men required to attend each section of retorts, consisting of ten fires and three retorts to each fire, is sixteen in winter and twenty in summer, making an average of eighteen. The wages of the stokers are thirty-seven dollars a month, and of the helpers thirty-two dollars.

This does not include the men engaged in the purifying department, nor lime burning, nor the yard hands engaged in storing coal, storing and measuring, coke, &c., nor the valve keepers, nor mechanics employed in fitting up, repairing, &c. The wear and tear of tools and machinery used in charging the retorts, and removing the coke, is not, and cannot well be, kept separate from that of other tools and machinery used about the works, as all are subject to continual repair, and renewal in the workshops of the establishment: at a reasonable estimate it would probable amount to about eight hundred dollars a year.

Respectfully,

JOHN C. CRESSON, Superintendent.

LETTER OF JOHN C. CRESSON.

OFFICE OF THE PHILA. GAS WORKS,
March 29th, 1848.

To the Joint Special Committee of Councils.

GENTLEMEN—Herewith is presented the detailed statement of the charges to repairs account for the years 1844, 1845, 1846, 1847, as called for by resolution of the Committee of 27th inst.

It should be borne in mind, that the cash account cannot accurately represent the relative amount of repairs, nor of other current expenses incurred in each year; as the difference in the extent of credits obtained at different times, causes much variation in the amount paid in the year to which it belongs.

Thus on the 1st of January, 1846, there was due on account of repairs, over four thousand dollars, belonging to the year before which was paid early in that year, while on the 1st of January, 1847, there was not five hundred dollars due on the same account. The heavy payments having been called for before the close of the previous year.

The published statements under the head of "State of the Works," furnish all the data required for the elucidation of this point; this is exhibited in the subjoined abstract of liabilities chargeable to current expenses, and of the assets belonging to the same account for the four years embraced in the resolution.

January 1st.	Assets.	Liabilities.
1845,	$15,033 70.	$20,000 00.
1846,	23,332 60.	32,000 00.
1847,	34,442 58.	28,000 00.
1848,	26,230 20.	36,400 00.

The repair account of 1846, was augmented by repairs of greater extent than usual to the retort benches, the coal stores and meters, the amount of which was about two thousand dollars. There was also four thousand dollars paid for expenses incurred in 1845, and a much smaller amount due at the close of the year, than on the preceding or following years, being $4000 greater than the former, and $8,400 greater than the latter, while the stock of materials on hand was $8,200 less in January, 1848, than in 1847.

Respectfully,

JOHN C. CRESSON, Superintendent.

Although not alluded to in the resolution of the Committee, I suppose their desire is to obtain data for the solution of the apparently small cost of the Gas made in 1847, as exhibited in the cash account at the close of the year.

There is no difficulty in arriving at this from the statements furnished by the Board, from which we derive the following.

Cash for current expenses in 1847,	$93,227 42
Due on this account beyond the amount due the year before,	8,400 00
Diminution of stock on hand,	8,212 38
Actual cost of Gas in 1847,	$109,839 80

Equal to $1 20 per thousand feet, exclusive of interest, &c.

There was a saving on the contract of coals by the difference in price between 1846 and 1847 of 3½ cents per bushel, on 250,000 bushels,	8,750 00
--	----------

Making the cost at the price of coals in 1846,	$118,589 00
--	---------------------

Equal to $1 29 cents per thousand feet, exclusive of interest and depreciation of machinery at the Works, Street Mains, Services, and Meters.

Cash for current expenses in 1846,	$115,779 61
Deduct increase of stock of coals, rosin, and coke on hand,	$11,110 58
Decrease of indebtedness,	4,000 00
Actual cost of Gas in 1846,	$100,669 03

Equal to $1 33 cents per thousand, exclusive of interest, &c.

Difference of cost due to increase of manufacture 4 cents per thousand feet, exclusive of interest and depreciation of works, which are not embraced in any of the above statements.

LETTER OF EDWARD OLMSTED.

31 May, 1848.

B. GERHARD, Esq.,

Chairman, Joint Committee Gas Works.

DEAR SIR.—Mr. Birch has furnished me, with a copy of a resolution passed by the Joint Special Committee on the Gas works, authorizing you “to obtain the opinion of the City Solicitor, whether under existing ordinances, it is legal for the Select and Common Councils to abolish the Board of Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas works, and place the management of the works in charge of a Joint Standing Committee of Councils organized and appointed as the Watering Committee.”

The only act of Councils which would seem to interfere with their right, to abolish the Board of Trustees of the Gas works, and substitute any other mode of management, is found in the 3d Section of the Ordinance of 17 June, 1841, entitled “An Ordinance for the further extension and management of the Philadelphia Gas works,” in which it is enacted “that for the further security of the said loan holders, (that is holders of gas loans,) it is hereby stipulated that the said works shall be controlled and managed by a Board of Trustees, elected and constituted as heretofore, &c. &c. If it is contended that the construction to be placed upon this section is, that Councils have covenanted with the holders of gas loans, that the said works shall be managed by a Board of Trustees to be elected in a certain provided manner, notwithstanding the public interests may require a change in the mode of management, the answer is obvious, that a restriction on the right of Councils to legislate except in a particular manner, is not binding, because Councils cannot abridge their legislative power.

In the year 1821, the case of Gozler against the Corporation of Georgetown (6 Wheaton, 593) was decided, which presented a question similar to the one in hand. In 1799, the Corporation of Georgetown passed an ordinance for the graduation of certain streets, and enacted that when the graduation was made, it should forever thereafter be considered as the true graduation of the streets, and be binding on the Corporation and all other persons. In 1816, the Corporation by an ordinance, altered the grade of a street which was graduated in 1799. An owner of property on the street had improved on the faith of the grade fixed in 1799; and that of 1815 compelled an alteration of his property to conform thereto. He denied the right of the Corporation to alter the grade fixed and established in 1799, and brought suit. The case reached the Supreme Court of the United States, who decided that the Corporation had a right to alter the grade of a street at pleasure: that the power to regulate the streets was a continuing power: and declared in the opinion delivered, that "when a government enters into a contract, there is no doubt of its power to bind itself to any extent not prohibited by its constitution. A Corporation can make such contracts only as are allowed by the acts of incorporation. The power of this body to make a contract which should so operate as to bind its legislative capacities forever thereafter, and disable it from enacting a by-law, which the Legislature enables it to enact, may be well questioned. We rather think that the Corporation cannot abridge its own legislative power."

Upon authority therefore as well as upon principle, I am of opinion, that Councils can legally abolish the Board of Trustees of the Philadelphia Gas works, and place their management in charge of a Committee of Councils.

I am, yours, &c.,

APPENDIX No. LXVI.

To the Select and Common Councils:

The Committee on Police, to whom was referred the consideration of the following resolution, viz:

"Resolved, That the Committee on Police, be authorized to rent, so long as they shall see fit, the bell belonging to the Western Hose Company, and to cause the same to be rung in time of fire, in the place where the said bell now hangs, in Schuylkill Third below Pine street, by such persons as they may appoint; Provided, the City Solicitor shall deem the premises lawful;"

Respectfully report—

That in obedience to this reference of a further consideration of an application to Councils, to grant authority to hire, or rent the use of a fire alarm bell belonging to a private hose company—a bell now prepared for use, perhaps contrary to the true intent and meaning of the 3d Section of the Act of Assembly, passed on the 7th of March last, your Committee have carefully reviewed their opinion expressed in a former report, and have found no reason to change their decision, as regards the inexpediency of the proposed measure.

Although, on reference of this subject to the City Solicitor, it appears he is of opinion that Councils have the power to grant the authority asked for in the premises, yet, a very grave question presents itself to your Committee, in relation to the consistency of the exercise of such power by Councils, and that is, whether Councils are prepared to do an act which in effect, will virtually abrogate or abandon the salutary restraints maintained by the Act of Assembly, so recently passed; as well as by the provisions of the Ordinance of January, 1844, which, after years of anxious solicitude, have been found effectual in preserving peace and good order, at least, within the corporate limits of our city?

The words of the 3d Section of the Act of Assembly are,

“No fire company now formed, or hereafter to be formed within said city or incorporated districts, shall erect or use any stationary alarm bell; the said city and incorporated districts shall each procure and have, at least one large bell, to be rung in time of fire, by a person duly appointed by the respective corporations of said city and districts.”

It may be proper here to repeat also, that there are now five large fire alarm bells in use by the city authorities, owned by the city, viz:

1st. The principal bell on the State House, Chestnut street.

2d. On the Station House, No. 1, in Union street, near Delaware Fourth street.

3d. On the Station House, No. 2, in Cherry street, east of Delaware Fifth street.

4th. On the new Station House, No. 3, in Schuylkill Eighth street, near Locust street.

5th. On the Station House, No. 4, in Filbert street, west of Schuylkill Eighth street.

These bells, until lately, have been deemed adequate to the spread of alarm during fires; exceptions, however, have been made to that on the Station house, when in Broad street (S. W. District). But this bell having very recently been removed further westward, and to a more elevated position, over sixty feet in height, on the new Station House, it is confidently believed will obviate the use of any other bell in that district. But should experience hereafter, ascertain that this liberal distribution of the means of alarm be found unequal to the purpose designed by Councils, and the Legislature of our State, your Committee would by no means recommend "getting round" existing law to attain that object, but earnestly commend to Councils the purchase, and absolute possession and control of such additional bells.

Your Committee therefore respectfully submit the resolution annexed.

To the Select and Common Councils :

The Committee on Public Highways, to whom was referred a Petition of residents of Schuylkill Fifth and Cherry streets, asking that Cherry street may be opened and drained, Respectfully report :

That said Cherry street has not been dedicated to public use, and therefore they deem it inexpedient to cause the said street to be opened and drained, and offer the following resolution.

The Boudinot lands remain, as heretofore, unproductive and chargeable with taxes, about thirty-eight dollars per annum. Councils in passing the Appropriation Bill for the present year, made provision for a visit of inspection to the lands. In carrying out this purpose, a sub-committee was appointed, who in July last entered on their duties, "impressed," as they say in their report, "with the opinion that a legacy apparently so valuable should be carefully examined, and faithfully protected."

The Report, after giving much matter of detail, concludes with the opinion, that the best interests of the trust require that a thorough exploration should be made of the lands, with a view to obtaining correct information, with certificates of the mineral resources, and quality of the soil, and then to make sale by public auction after due advertisements, of the entire body for the best price that can be obtained.

They also suggest, that if Councils are indisposed to order the sale of the lands, measures should be taken either to remove the persons who have located themselves upon part of the lands, or to obtain from them an acknowledgment that they hold them from and under the City.

Whichever of the courses Councils shall deem expedient, the Committee will endeavor to carry into effect.

The Wills Hospital under the care of the present Managers, continues its heretofore useful course, and the Committee have the pleasure of informing Councils, that during the last session of the Legislature, they obtained the passage of an act which exempts this institution from all taxation.

The Fire Department has been tranquil since the passage of the "Act by the Legislature, for regulating the Fire Department," and it is hoped that hereafter, our City will be free from the frequent riots among that Department, which heretofore have disgraced our City.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
